Skala Falls to Russians; Annihilation Fight Rages On 15 Trapped Divisions

Republicans Talking Dewey-Warren Team To Win East, West

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey scored the first tangible gain today from the withdrawal of Wendell L. Willkie from the GOP presidential nomination contest as talk in political circles increased of a Republican ticket composed of the New Yorker and Governor Earl Warren, of California.

The 42-year-old former rackets prosecutor picked up a New York delegate who had been counted in Willkie's claimed column, thus raising his claimed support to 83 out of New York's 85 unpledged district delegates and his total to a minimum of 133 out of the 276 GOP delegates so far chosen. A total of 530 is necessary for a nomination.

The New Yorker who went over to Dewey's side was Rolland B. Marvin, Onondaga (Syracuse) Republican county chairman, who said that in view of the vote in Wisconsin, giving Dewey a possible 18 out of the 24 delegates and Willkie none, he would "unreservedly" support Dewey. Two other New York delegates remained uncommitted.

DEWEY, WARREN SILENT

In face of the Republican talking, both Dewey and Warren repeated today they were not candidates for the presidential nomination. The New Yorker refused comment on the Willkie withdrawal, and the Californian said "Willkie's action has not changed my position" or changed the position of his state's 50 delegates to the national convention.

A reporter asked Dewey point blank:

"In view of Mr. Willkie's withdrawal from the race and your own long lead for the nomination, will you become an avowed candidate?"

Dewey answered, "no comment," then amplified his reply with:

"I have discussed that subject so many times, my position on it is entirely clear."

Asked if he would consent to run for vice president if "drafted" at the convention, Warren said:

"I do not care to comment on that. There is nobody representing me and there is nobody I am close to doing anything for me in that respect."

BATTLE IN EAST, WEST

Meanwhile those who predict a Dewey-Warren ticket were arguing this way: In view of the fact that the Republicans have demonstrated much strength in the midwest and the south is traditionally Democratic, the crucial election battlegrounds this year will be the east and the west. Warren comes from the west's most populous state, just as Dewey represents the biggest in the east.

Moreover, it is argued, the addition of Warren to the ticket might be calculated to attract many voters who supported Willkie because of his international views. Warren had advocated an internation-

Hull To Present Full-Dress Talk On U. S. Policy

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull will make a full-dress speech on American foreign policy Sunday night, coupling a new reply to his critics with a discussion of current international political questions.

Designed to show how United States foreign policy operates, the speech will stand as Hull's answer to those who say that American diplomatic maneuvers, particularly in Europe, often are governed more by expediency than principle.

In this respect the secretary is believed to consider the speech a logical follow up to his publication March 21 of 17 major points of foreign policy.

Between that time and the present he has attended the meeting of foreign ministers in Moscow where he obtained agreement by Britain, Russia and China to the principle of postwar collaboration.

Hull's Sunday night speech will begin at 6:30 o'clock, E. W. T., and probably will last about 40 minutes. It will be broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Behind his decision to make the address lies the secretary's conviction, recently expressed to friends and callers at his office, that the country is now entering one of the most critical periods in history in so far as its foreign relations are concerned.

The secretary believes that he has charted a clear course through this period and that the greatest danger to following it effectively into a period of collective international action after the war lies in misunderstanding and deliberate distorting of his work and his principles by those who seek for one reason or another to destroy what he is trying to build.

The keystone of his policy is the conviction that the United States must work with Britain and Russia if there is to be any hope for creating a postwar security system which would assure peace in the world for a long time.

For the short course, the secretary's basic principle is that American foreign policy must be designed to help the armed forces destroy Nazi Germany.

Jap Invaders Whacking At Burma Supply Line

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Japanese invaders of India, driving against Allied life lines into Burma, continued yesterday to exert pressure along the entire Assam front, but Allied forces ambushed enemy units on the roads north and south of the Indian base at Imphal. Allied supply lines remained usable.

Meanwhile, Chinese forces, operating in north Burma, captured two small settlements in the upper Mogaung valley, smashed one Japanese river stronghold and pressed their advance.

In the Central Pacific theater of war American airmen continued to soften up Japan's Truk fortress, hitting it for the 13th time in the past seven days. Other bombing raids were carried out in that area.

Japan's north New Guinea base of Hollandia, where a fleet of 288 planes was wiped out recently, was smashed hard again at noon Wednesday by Allied planes, General MacArthur announced yesterday.

NO AIR LOSSES

The raiding Fifth Air Force encountered no air interception and suffered no losses as they swarmed on the staging base for bomb-blasted enemy garrisons to the southeast at Wewak and Madang. A ship in Hollandia's harbor was set afire.

Three hundred and twenty tons of bombs destroyed buildings and set fuel dumps afire.

This great weight followed by only four days a record 400-ton assault at Hollandia Sunday which finished off the base's planes and rendered its three airfields unserviceable.

General MacArthur will continue in complete direction of Southwest Pacific offensives, it is believed in reliable quarters regardless of changes that may be made in the status of the South Pacific area or its command.

This view developed after the disclosure by war correspondents at South Pacific headquarters that Admiral William F. Halsey may be switched from his command there to another important post.

All indications here are that any such change would not affect MacArthur's control of operations in the Southwest Pacific area nor his long range plans.

JAPS AMBUSHED

An official war bulletin from Allied headquarters in India told of the ambushing of Japanese units along the Imphal front but gave nothing specific on the Dimapur zone. Earlier reports said the invaders had driven two spearheads to within 80 miles of Dimapur, on the American Army-operated Bengal-Assam railway.

Allied supplies continue to flow along the railway to upper Burma. Even if this line should be cut there still is a highway and a railway along the Brahmaputra river. These supply lines already are being utilized for the movement of war materials.

Burmese forces, pressing on Myitkyina, reached the Tiang river, supposedly at a point 45

British Opinion Forcing 60,000 Back to Mines

LONDON, April 6.—(AP)—The Yorkshire mine strike of 60,000 workers appeared to be cracking tonight under intense pressure of public opinion, determined government warnings and union appeals.

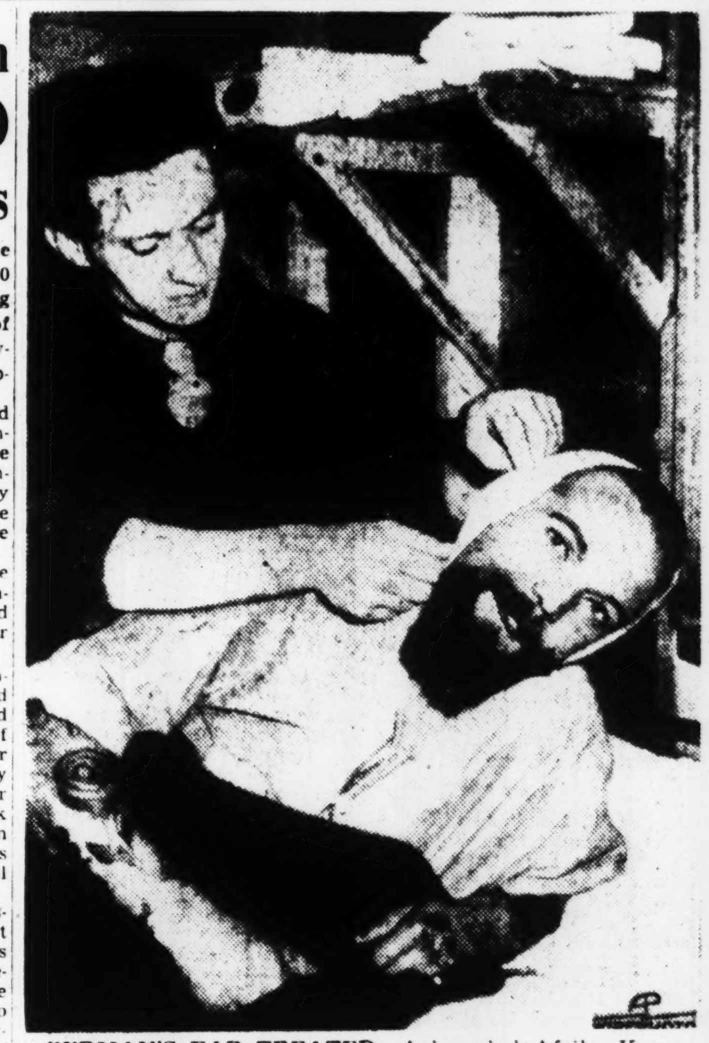

Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George said the situation was improved, with 60 per cent of the Yorkshire pits working throughout the day. A slow but steady return of workers renewed the hope of a showdown might be averted.

The executive committee of the Yorkshire Mineworkers' Association felt the strikers all would be back at work by the Easter holiday's end next Tuesday.

Lloyd George informed commons the latest of the coal field walkouts cut war production and cost the country an average of 385,000 tons of fuel the past four weeks. He declared emphatically "strike action in time of war cannot be justified" and said work stoppage made heavy inroads in dwindling reserves and has stopped coal export to neutral countries.

The British cabinet had assigned Labor Minister Ernest Bevin to deal with outlaw strikes inciters under the wartime defense of the realm act before he and Lloyd George entered into conferences with the national executive committee of the mineworkers federation.

This union group issued a statement declaring it imperative to the war effort that strikes be stopped.

Reds Form New Odessa Trap as Noose Tightens

LONDON, Friday, April 7.—(AP) The First Ukrainian Red Army tightened strangling nooses around two large German forces encircled at Tarnopol and near Skala yesterday and closed in for the kill while Russians of the Third Ukrainian army splashed 13 to 15 miles through the mud toward Odessa in an operation designed to spring still another trap around that Black Sea port.

The Russians announced they were closing on Odessa from the northeast, north and northwest, with the most notable gain the capture of Karpovo, railway station 23 miles northwest of the port. The victory was credited to a shrewd flanking blow at Nazis, who were counterattacking in a vain effort to retake Razhelnaya, vital rail junction 38 miles northwest of Odessa.

Razdelnaya fell only Wednesday. The Russians advanced 15 miles in yesterday's combat along the line that once was the Germans' main hope of escape but now is a Soviet pathway towards Odessa.

100 TOWNS TAKEN

On the north the Russians thrust 13 miles down the rain swollen Kuyalnik river to the head of the salty Kuyalnik lagoon that was a peacetime center for health-bathers. Captured towns among more than 100 that fell on the Odessa front included Maryanovka, 21 miles north of Odessa, and Sverdlovo, 14 miles northeast.

In the twin cauldrons of Tarnopol and Skala on the northwest Ukraine front, the Russians told of events reminiscent of Korsun and Stalingrad: Germans madly dying in vain attempts to break out, and relief forces struggling to break in while senior Nazi officers fled by air from the constantly-constricting areas.

The Soviet midnight communique announced capture of Skala itself, 55 miles southwest of Tarnopol and 40 miles northeast of Czernowitz, and a series of other strong points within the defenses of the remnants of 15 Nazi divisions west and southwest of Skala. The action was described officially as a battle for annihiliation of the trapped Germans.

REPEL TARNOPOL ASSAULT

At Tarnopol itself the Russians announced they beat off attacks by large German infantry and tank forces that tried vainly to break in from the outside to release their encircled comrades. The only result was a tightening of the loop and heavy losses to the Germans. Street fighting already has been in progress in Tarnopol for days.

On the Kishinev front in central Bessarabia, the Russians also announced continuing progress.

For the third successive night Moscow was silent regarding the Rumanian front, where the Germans claim to have brought up reinforcements.

NAZIS CLAIM STALL

German and Rumanian reports stressed the theme that the Russian campaign in Rumania had been stalled, but Moscow's silence did not necessarily bear them out, and repeated British and American air raids on key Balkan targets were paving the way for the Russians to push further into Rumania.

The German attempt at a rescue expedition for Tarnopol was a belated one, for the garrison there has been in close combat with the Russians since the Soviets first crashed into the outskirts of the city March 9.

Their ring around the city was completed 12 days ago.

Army Reaches Its Full Strength Of 7,700,000, But Draft Goes On

Fast Induction Needed To Expand Sea Force

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—The Army has reached its full strength of 7,700,000, but that fact will not change the present rapid tempo of the draft, the Office of War Information announced tonight.

Draft calls must continue at levels sufficient to expand the Navy, which will reach its peak strength of 3,600,000, including Marine Corps and Coast Guard, by September 1.

Men are also needed to provide replacements for both Army and Navy.

The War Department, in a statement issued through OWI, announced that its planned strength has been reached, but that it will require 75,000 to 100,000 men a month throughout the remainder of 1944 to maintain that strength.

3,500,000 BY JULY

The Navy Department told OWI that by July 1 its forces should total 3,500,000.

About 300,000 men will be needed to reach that net strength by July 1 and at the same time provide the necessary naval replacements.

Between July 1 and September 1 an additional 100,000 men will be added to the net strength of the naval forces.

Selective Service headquarters said induction obviously cannot be materially reduced before July.

The announcement did not say how many total inductions a month will be necessary to hold the Navy and Army at their top strength, once they both have reached it, but Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey said tonight in a speech that 150,000 a month would be "a most conservative estimate."

That figure would include estimated casualties as well as normal discharges, which have been running anywhere from 75,000 to 100,000 a month. Eighteen year olds can supply approximately 60,000 a month.

Although official figures were lacking, it was unofficially estimated that inductions now approximate 200,000 men a month.

DRAFT MUST CONTINUE

The War Department statement said:

"Inductions through Selective Service must continue, with the emphasis on young men who are needed to replace losses due to combat and to normal attrition resulting from accidents, disease and disabilities. . . . This means that the Army will need from 700,000 to 1,000,000 men during the remainder of 1944.

"During April the Army will slightly exceed its planned strength in order to start now the training of men who will be required to meet anticipated losses. April in excess of planned strength Men inducted into the Army in thus will be available at the time they most probably will be needed.

"A reduction of the Army's calls on Selective Service to maintenance requirements will begin some time in May. The size of calls henceforth will be determined by existing conditions, with the strength of the Army fluctuating either slightly over or slightly under the 7,700,000 figure.

"It is emphasized that there can be no diminition of the efforts of local Selective Service boards to deliver the maximum possible number of men in the lower age groups within the Army's calls. This will require continuous pressure on industry and agriculture to eliminate all but the vitally essential deferments between the ages of 18 and 26."

Gen. Somervell Warns Against Over-Optimism

By PAUL WARWICK.

Army Day in Atlanta, celebrated yesterday, brought no note of optimism about a quick end to the war, but, on the other hand, encouraged all citizens to redouble their martial efforts from now on out if the war is won at all.

Two authentic spokesmen of the Army, in public and private statements, sounded the same note of confidence, blended with caution, which commended the armed forces for their collective achievements to date, but warned Atlanta people against expecting any end to hostilities—even on the European front—within the next few days.

There was no corroboration of recent quick-war-end predictions by Henry Ford and Sergeant Alvin York in speeches and interviews delivered yesterday by Major General Frederick H. Uhl, commanding general of the Fourth Service Command, and Lieutenant General Brehon Somervell, chief of the Army Service Forces.

Major General Uhl's pronunciamento was rendered on schedule, since he was the principal speaker at a luncheon sponsored by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the Military Order of the World War.

Lieutenant General Somervell was more spontaneous, but every bit as sincere, as he talked to newsmen before departing for Washington by air, after a sudden trip to Atlanta to confer with General Uhl on matters connected with operation of the Fourth Service Command.

Manpower was obviously on the minds of both these military leaders.

"Last year," said General Uhl, "in the United States as a whole, there were 3,750 strikes which caused a loss of 13,500,000 mandays in production of war materials. To put it another way, it would take 13,500 workers nearly two and three-fourth years to produce what the country lost as a

Warmer Temperatures Forecast Here Today

Cloudy skies today are forecast by the Atlanta weather bureau, but warmer temperatures will go with them, the forecasters at the bureau said yesterday.

The high reading yesterday was 62 degrees, while the low reading was 32 degrees.

Hartsfield Tells Judge Of Georgia

When Judge Michael L. Igoe, of Chicago, described the hills of north Georgia as "a most backward part of our country," he brought from Atlanta's Mayor Hartsfield a bristling retort. Igoe's remarks were in connection with a Mann act sentence he imposed on a Chicago couple Wednesday for forcing an Atlanta girl into prostitution.

Fan your ears, Judge Igoe, as Mayor Hartsfield speaks:

"It was poor taste for a federal judge to offer a gratitious insult to the people of north Georgia. My mother was reared in those hills, which contain the finest Anglo-Saxon stock in the nation.

"It is true that north Georgians cannot boast of some of the civilized conveniences of Judge Igoe's home town, such as the Capones, Nittis, Bioffs and other assorted arrays of gamblers, alky cookers, grafters, pimps and other criminal scum.

"Judge Igoe also overlooks the fact that when this poor girl was sold into a life of prostitution, it was his own 'progressive' community which furnished the market for her degradation."

Pilot Uses Parachutes To Stop Crippled Plane

SEVENTH ARMY AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Hawaii, April 6.—(AP)—A flyer who saved the lives of his crew by an ingenious use of parachutes to check the landing speed of a crippled four-engined bomber was commended today by the chief of the Army Air Force.

The three chutes, opening as the bomber made an emergency landing without a hydraulic system of brakes, stopped the big plane on the last inch of a fighter strip at Tarawa, in the Gilberts.

The quick-thinking flyer was Lieutenant Charles F. Pratte, of Warren, R. I.

The landing, General H. H. Arnold, chief of the AAF, wrote Lieutenant Pratte, was a feat "of high order—unique as far as I know in operational history" of aircraft.

There had been a 90-mile running battle with 30 Japanese fighters. Pratte's plane, "Belle of Texas," dropped back to protect another damaged bomber.

Three shells and 30 machinegun bullets hit the "Belle." The hydraulic system was shot away. The brakes were useless. One of the four engines had stalled.

The "Belle" wobbled within sight of a new fighter strip being built on Tarawa. Pratte had parachutes attached to waist gun mounts and tail bracings. Just as the wheels touched the runway, the three 'chutes were released, opening simultaneously.

When it stopped on the last inch of runway, the bomber's wheels were on land—but the nose was over water. The crew members estimate the billowing 'chutes cut the speed 30 to 40 miles an hour.

Dewey Forecast To Win Half of Willkie's Votes

By GEORGE GALLUP,
Director of American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 6—Which of the possible candidates will Willkie fans and file supporters favor with Willkie out of the running?

Latest published Institute surveys show Willkie with support totaling 21 per cent of those voters naming a Republican candidate from a list of prominent Republican and Democratic candidate possibilities.

Foreseeing possible elimination of one or more candidates, the Institute has previously asked voters to make a second choice from the list of possible candidates. On this basis about 10 out of 12 of Willkie supporters remain in Republican ranks, picking another GOP hopeful. About two in 12 pick a Democratic possibility as their second choice.

Even before Willkie's elimination, Dewey was top preference among GOP voters, with support totaling 45 per cent.

Approximately six in every 12 of Willkie's supporters move to the New York governor, increasing his heavy following considerably. About two in 12 go to Douglas MacArthur, Roosevelt, Bricker and Stassen each got roughly one in 12 of the Willkie vote. The rest go principally to other Democratic possibilities.

Nazis Believe They Have Lost, Says Norse Underground Head

LONDON, April 6—(INS)—Withdrawal of 50 per cent of Germany's crack occupation troops from Norway was disclosed tonight by a Norwegian underground leader who has just escaped from the Nazis and arrived in London. He said the Nazis in Norway now are convinced Germany has lost the war.

At the same time, two officers of the Dutch army who recently escaped from Holland declared the Germans already are thinking in terms of a third world war. They said the Nazis in Holland attribute Germany's prospective defeat in the present conflict mainly to the deficiencies of the Reich navy.

"The lessons of this war are being eagerly studied by the Germans with the view of applying them at some future date," said the Dutch officers.

The Norwegian underground leader revealed the Germans have pulled out half their good troops from Norway within the past two months and have thinly replaced them with old men and young, untrained boys.

Nazi nervousness and a conviction Germany has lost the war, the Norwegian patriot revealed, is reflected by a radical change in the German treatment of Russian prisoners of war interned in Norway.

Heretofore the Russian prisoners had been treated like animals, subjected to torture and starvation, the underground fighter said. Today the Germans have grown very careful of the treatment afforded the Russian captives who are given unheard-of freedom of movement and better food.

The Nazis, said the Norwegian leader, now turn a blind eye on Norwegians who slip food and messages to the Russian prisoners.

The Soviet soldiers, he added, often are allowed to come and go without guard to and from their places of imprisonment.

Resistance to the Germans and aid to the Allies from among the people of Norway, the underground commander continued, now is stronger than ever. He said Vidkun Quisling's promise to supply the German army with three Norwegian divisions has turned into a complete fiasco.

Norwegians, he went on, consistently manage to avoid German slave labor drafts by sabotage, forgery of papers and concealment of persons marked for labor conscription.

Meanwhile Norway's King Haakon sent a message from his exile in Britain to the people of his subjugated land, promising their hour of deliverance is near. The elderly monarch's message, prepared to mark the fourth anniversary next Sunday of the German invasion of Norway, declared:

"These have been long and difficult years. But today we not only hope but we know the hour of liberation soon will strike."

Further evidence meanwhile of Germany's determination to put up a desperate fight for the Soviet-invaded Balkans and take a chance on the weakening of Nazi defenses in Scandinavia was seen in a Stockholm report. This said the Germans have been withdrawing troops from Denmark for two

Tighter Clamps on Coal Next Winter Predicted

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Restrictions on use of coal probably will have to be tightened still further next winter, Secretary Ickes forecast today, because drafting of younger miners will increase the gap between production and needs.

The interior secretary and war fuel administrator gave no hint of what restrictions he has in mind in telling a press conference of this prospect. Officials have held out against coal rationing because it would present many difficulties since types of coal vary greatly in heat content.

The amount of coal which may be purchased or stockpiled already is under restrictions for most types.

Ickes said he had about given up hope for occupational deferment of any miners under age 26 although he has asked it for those aged 22 through 25 who have had three years' experience.

A recent survey disclosed there are 36,000 miners under 26, he related, and he estimated 20,000 would be inducted if no occupational deferments are granted—a figure meaning 16,000 would be classed 4-F or deferred for miscellaneous reasons.

Ickes said drafting of these 20,000 would mean a loss of 28,000,000 tons of coal, bringing the prospective deficit in the coming season's production to 54,000,000 tons. A 26,000,000-ton deficit under the year's requirements is in prospect with existing manpower, he explained.

He estimated 8,000 miners would be drafted if those in the 22-25 age brackets with three years' experience were deferred and said this would mean a cut of 11,000,000 tons in coal production.

Consumption in the year ending April 1 was about 40,000,000 tons greater than production, reducing stockpiles from 90,000,000 tons to 50,000,000.

NEW BASTILLE—Atlanta's new $125,000 city prison, constructed to house 725 inmates, will begin operation about May 10, the date set tentatively for the official opening. Headed by Dr. Lester Brewer, chairman of city council's prison committee, a group of municipal officials have inspected the new building and approved it.

HASH HOUSE—Inmates at the city's new $125,000 city prison on Key road will have spotless dining rooms, and other modern and sanitary facilities, when the new structure begins functioning next month. H. H. Gibson, superintendent of the prison farm, has supervised construction, now practically completed and awaiting occupancy.

New City Jail Opening Is Set

Official opening of Atlanta's new $125,000 city prison on Key road with a capacity of 725 prisoners has been set tentatively for May 10.

Following an inspection of the new facilities yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield, members of city council's prison committee and other municipal officials, the date for ceremonies marking erection of the new structure was set. Alderman Lester R. Brewer is chairman of the prison committee.

The building contains 45,000 square feet of floor space, and can house 725 prisoners without crowding them. It is of reinforced concrete construction, and the arrangement will eliminate long-standing criticism of near-by residents because of escapes from the old, overcrowded and ill-arranged structure.

Kitchens, dining rooms and all other necessary activities of the prison will be under the same roof. Provision has been made to house 250 white and 250 Negro men, 150 Negro women and 75 white women.

The 20-year-old prison which will be abandoned will be converted into the first adequate city detention hospital for treatment of those infected with venereal diseases, under plans of city council and the city health department.

Council already has provided $25,000 for renovation and modernization in order that every modern facility for treatment can be provided.

Reversal Won In Shrimp Case

The Georgia supreme court has reversed a McIntosh superior court order granting an injunction to restrain E. F. Creaser, state coastal fisheries supervisor, from enforcing the shrimp-fishing regulations and has held Georgia game and fish laws constitutional.

The court also ruled legal an election in Polk county repealing a law legalizing the sale of liquor and held the referendum section of the state revenue act constitutional.

Justice W. Frank Jenkins held in the shrimp fishing injunction case that the state laws did not prohibit an individual from suing a state officer on his bond where irreparable injury had been done through arrest or seizure of property.

A. M. Durrant and others had obtained the restraining order after Creaser and his agents had seized three shrimp boats and "shrimp of considerable value while the boats were operating in Sapelo sound."

Durrant contended the boats were operating outside the jurisdiction of the state and that the seizure was illegal and in violation of the fifth amendment of the United States constitution and the state constitution's provisions prohibiting seizure of property without due process of law.

POLK ELECTION

Polk county's election in which 1,774 votes were cast against illegal sale of spiritous liquors and 345 for on November 3, 1943, was held legal in an opinion by Justice Wyatt, all justices concurring, sustaining Judge W. W. Mundy, who denied an injunction against enforcement of the result.

D. C. Sanders and nine others appealed Judge Munday's Polk's superior court decision, contending that less than 35 per cent of the registered voters as required by law had signed a petition under which the election was called.

Sanders and the others also contended a referendum section of the revenue code was unconstitutional because it provided no right of contest or appeal and violated "the due process" section of the constitution.

BRYANT CASE

In another decision the court affirmed the death sentence of Willie Bryant, Negro, convicted of the slaying of Zack Trice in Macon June 28, 1939.

This was the second time that Bryant's case had been before the high court on appeal from a death sentence imposed in Bibb superior court. Bryant first was convicted on February 19, 1940, but the death sentence was reversed by the supreme court on January 15, 1941.

The court at that time ruled the lower court had erred in excluding testimony regarding Bryant's flight from the city and his reasons for not returning.

In today's opinion the court sustained the Bibb superior court in denying a new trial on error.

The appeal to the supreme court contended the Negro was "a victim of circumstances" and that he is an imbecile with the mind of a child 7 or 8 years old.

Vets Assured Priority In City Civil Service

Honorably discharged war veterans are assured of a priority on city civil service jobs and the Atlanta police department will get 14 new automobiles for their police activities under measures approved by Mayor Hartsfield.

The mayor signed council measures which will give veterans a 5 per cent "bonus" in competitive examinations for city jobs, and in the event a private citizen should tie the veteran after the bonus has been granted, the name of the veteran will get the preference. The action is in conformity with a recently passed state constitutional amendment.

The 14 new radio patrol cars for the police department will cost about $17,000, and was passed by council after several members protested the trade-in allowance of only $135 each for used city cars.

7 Augusta Taxi Firms' Gas-Saving Plan OK'd

A joint plan for seven taxicab firms at Augusta to reduce their aggregate annual mileage by 3,000,000 miles and to use 29 per cent less gasoline than is now being consumed has been approved by the regional Office of Defense Transportation. This was after cab firms complained that gasoline allotment quotas were exhausted almost a month before new allotments were made.

The plan, affecting 109 taxis, will become effective Saturday and eliminates all use of cabs for pleasure trips, confining the cars to essential and emergency trips. It also eliminated all mass transportation to and from Camp Gordon, near Augusta, allowing only transportation for soldiers who have luggage, hospital patients and soldiers' relatives visiting hospitals at the camp.

Dailey Trial Arguments Due

Arguments by both the government prosecutors and defense attorneys will be presented today in federal court before Judge E. Marvin Underwood charges the jury hearing testimony in the trial of DeKalb County Police Chief Joseph T. Dailey and three officers on his staff, all charged with violation of the civil liberties of two Negroes.

In the government's rebuttal yesterday additional evidence in support of earlier testimony that the DeKalb county policemen had mistreated several prisoners in their custody was presented.

The four officers, including Chief Dailey, Lieutenant Ben Hensler, Charles L. Visscher and Jefferson C. Holbrook are charged specifically with beating and mistreating Naomi Reid and Raymond Rouser, Negroes, to obtain their confession to burglarizing the Ritz Supper Club last October.

FIGHT STORY DENIED

Testimony offered by defense witnesses earlier that Rouser received bruises and injuries from a fight he was alleged to have had with a Negro locked in the cell with him was contested yesterday when District Attorney M. Neal Andrews examined Woodrow Tory, Negro, alleged to have had the fight with Rouser. Tory testified that he did not get in a fight with Rouser and added that he noticed Rouser's face had been "beaten and was bleeding" when he first was placed in the cell.

Willie Lee Davis, Negro, who testified earlier during the trial that he was beaten by the officers while being investigated on a larceny charge, was recalled to the stand yesterday and testified that he had gone with R. F. Sams Jr., farmer of Clarkston, to see Roy Leathers, solicitor general of the Stone Mountain circuit, and Scott Candler, county commissioner, and made complaints against the officers about the beatings.

CANDLER, LEATHERS HEARD

Candler and Leathers, both witnesses for the defense, had previously testified that never at any time had any complaints been made to them about the officers beating any prisoner.

R. F. Sams Jr., Davis' former employer, followed Davis on the stand and corroborated his testimony regarding injuries Davis had following the alleged beatings. Sams' testimony regarding his visits to Candler and Leathers to make complaints against the beatings was ruled out by Judge Underwood following strong objections by defense attorneys.

Charles Martin, of Clarkston, and Miss Helen G. Forsdick, missionary worker, both testified of bruises they saw on Wilbur Edwards, of Cumming; Bruno and George Mika, and Robert Proszkoweiz, all of whom testified during the trial they had been beaten by the DeKalb officers.

Allied Power Exceeds Nazis' by Big Margin

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Mobilized economic strength of the United Nations now is "overwhelmingly greater" than Germany, the Administration said today, and the Nazis can [illegible] only at the expense of exhausting the Reich to a point unparalleled in centuries.

"The sheer weight of the Allied striking power in munitions and the materials to make them is so great that when fully brought to bear in the land, sea and air operations to come—victory is certain," said a statement by Leo T. Crowley, FEA administrator.

"Aircraft production by the United States, Russia and Great Britain already is four times the German output," Crowley said, and the supply of alloys for steel manufacture in the United States alone is many times as great.

NAZIS STILL TOUGH

He warned, however, that the Nazis can wage war "toughly" if they are willing to produce an economic collapse in Germany unequalled since the 30-year war and want "to load terrible economic privations on the German people."

Despite Allied bombings of industrial Germany, the FEA chief continued, the Nazi military machine "is still supported by a powerful war industry."

The inadequacy of this industry in the face of present and future land, air and sea operations of the United Nations "does not alter the fact that German war industry is still great in absolute terms," Crowley said.

"The Nazis apparently are determined to gamble away Germany's patrimony on the hope that time and chance are still worth playing for. Another year of this process—even if the Germans were able to continue resistance that long in the face of the offensives that are to come—would produce a crippling of German economic life without parallel for centuries."

NAZI INDUSTRY ORGANIZED

Since the German defeat at Stalingrad and after the intensified air attacks started last February, "a good part of the German industrial scene has been an agonized scramble to maintain production," Crowley said, and added:

"It is now apparent that the German defense against air attack cannot prevent the loss of one priority factory after another, the slowing down of production in the most important and efficient centers of war production, and the loss of millions of man hours.

The Germans already have lost many important supply sources, particularly manganese from Nikopol and wheat and other food from the Ukraine, Crowley said, and now are threatened with loss of olives, oil and food sources in the Balkans.

NAZI REPATRIATION

Wheeler Defends FCC Curb on Radio Talks

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 6.—(AP)—Chairman Wheeler, Democrat, of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, tonight defended Federal Communications Commission review of radio broadcasting as a protection against abuse of "freedom of speech."

"As long as I am in the senate, I am going to raise my voice against any radio station being permitted to put on one side of a question and deny the other side the right to be heard," Wheeler declared.

"I am going to oppose the privilege of any radio station to put on a commentator to use innuendoes or to lie about somebody and not give that person an opportunity to be heard."

He said that commentators "who use discussion of news to conduct personal agitation should be denied the air."

Wheeler's remarks, in a speech prepared for delivery over the Blue Network's "America's Town Meeting of the Air," evoked interest in view of legislation pending before his committee to limit Communications Commission control over the networks and radio stations.

On the same program, Senator Gurney, Republican, South Dakota, also a member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, took issue with his chairman declaring:

"We must place squarely on the whole industry—the broadcast owners, the radio advertisers, the commentators, the full responsibility for its own conduct, and I say what we must give broadcasting is freedom from fear, for I hate to see regulations issued or laws enacted, aimed at a very small minority.

"A little regulation of this sort is a dangerous thing, because it only invites further regulation in the future, leading to complete control and the elimination of freedom of speech in radio."

Landing Craft Workers Termed 'Vital Links'

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of United States naval forces in Europe, told men and women in the 30,000 manufacturing plants and 67 shipyards turning out landing craft that they are "vital links in the team that will carry the war to the enemy's door and burst it open."

Stark's statement, sent to the Navy from London and made public here, added that the big job of the Navy "is to get the man with the bayonet on enemy-held territory. This means landing craft. The sooner we get the craft the sooner we will end the war."

Emergency Bus, Truck Parts Plan Is Arranged

Critical parts for repairing trucks and buses may be obtained in emergency through a plan organized by regional officials of the War Production Board and the Office of Defense Transportation.

The new plan — stressed as strictly an emergency measure to be used only after other attempts have failed—allows dealers or jobbers to fill out a WPB "certificate for emergency repair order." Sent to the manufacturer, this order will receive factory priority over all stock orders and delivery will be made within two weeks, officials say.

Supreme Court Upholds State Game, Fish Laws

Georgia's game and fish laws were held constitutional today by the state supreme court in setting aside an injunction restraining F. F. Gracey, state coastal fisheries supervisor, from enforcing the shrimp fishing regulations.

The decision, written by Presiding Justice W. Frank Jenkins, held that the state game and fish laws did not violate the state and U. S. constitutional provisions in authorizing the confiscation of fish and game illegally taken and disposing of them as gifts to charitable institutions.

Yankee Bombers Blast Invasion Coast, Balkans

LONDON, April 6.—(AP)—American Liberator bombers, heavily packed with high explosives for the short haul across the Strait of Dover, hurled 600 tons of bombs on the Pas-de-Calais area of France today while the Germans broadcast reports that another American formation was over northern Yugoslavia.

It was the second successive day that Eighth Air Force heavy bombers have smashed at the German fortifications around the Pas-de-Calais, running the bomb total up to 1,200 tons, and was the third big operation in April for Britain-based American heavies.

Just as yesterday, it was carried out without loss of a single bomber or escorting fighter. Crews reported they saw no German planes and were hardly ruffled by the meager amount of anti-aircraft fire. The Yugoslav operation, which the Germans reported took the bombers over the Marburg-Zagreb area almost to the Austrian border, probably originated from Italian bases of the 15th Air Force.

The Germans also broadcast that single Allied planes were over north Germany.

AERIALS SWEEP BALKAN

Out of the bitter stalemate on the blood-soaked Italian front Allied air power is emerging with virtually complete responsibility for the "spring offensive" against the Nazis in southeastern Europe.

In sharp contrast to the way Allied armies have been checkmated south of Rome after a succession of costly attacks, hundreds of American heavy bombers have ranged from southern Italy in the past seven days to strike four of the most vital and most heavily defended targets east of Germany's own border—Sofia, Budapest, Bucharest and Ploesti.

While artillery duels and patrol clashes continued today to drain both the Allies and the Germans of manpower along the trans-Apennine line without a glimmer of a decision in sight, the U. S. "air trucks" in a week dumped nearly 2,000 tons of explosives on enemy targets as far as 500 miles from the Italian battle fields and within 200 miles of Soviet armies advancing from the east.

DOWN 40 NAZIS

In yesterday's assault on the great oil refinery center of Ploesti, 30 miles north of the Rumanian capital of Bucharest, Flying Fortresses and Liberators and their fighter escort shot down more than 40 Nazi fighters. They destroyed 49 in the previous day's raid on Bucharest. American pilots commented on the reduced quality of German fighter pilots in the Balkans.

Ploesti's railway yards, choked with oil tank cars and other military supplies moving toward the Russian front, were showered with bombs, and adjacent oil refineries also were hit.

Air Marshal Sir John C. Slessor, deputy commander of the Allied Mediterranean air forces, said the Ploesti fields and refineries were vital to the Germans "on anything like a long-term basis," and declared that the Nazis "could not possibly carry on without them."

If American bombers can knock out the Ploesti installations completely and keep them knocked out, Slessor said, the effect on the outcome of the war may be very great, for they are the Germans' main source of natural petroleum.

In that connection, Lieutenant General Ira C. Eaker, Allied air chief in the Mediterranean, said the German air force in the Balkans might soon be knocked out completely. "Then it will become practically a transport service merely carrying bombs," he declared.

RAF MOONLIGHT ASSAULT

The RAF last night executed another of its moonlight onslaughts against three German aircraft repair shops tucked away in the outskirts of Toulouse, France. One plane was listed as missing from the small force of Lancasters that made the 600-mile penetration of France and from others that laid mines in enemy waters.

In moonlight so bright they could see 20 miles, "crews were able to observe concentrated bombing of all three plants at the same time," the air ministry said, while "the defense consisted of a small number of heavy and light antiaircraft guns with only two searchlights."

The Vichy radio said heavy damage was done to property and 17 persons were killed and 45 injured.

The plants, mainly used by the Germans to repair Junkers 88 and Heinkel 111 bombers, were capable—before the bombing—of constructing large new planes. One, the Louis Breguet works, was used by the French in 1942 for development of jet-propelled aircraft.

The air ministry reported that photographic reconnaissance showed this plant was virtually destroyed and the other two were severely damaged.

The Berlin radio said the Bulgarian legation at Stockholm had received a report that Allied planes had destroyed the Bulgarian royal country castle of Vrania, near Sofia.

The broadcast quoted a statement from the legation as saying "it is astonishing that the youthful King of Bulgaria, a six-year-old child, as well as the Queen Mother and her young daughter are regarded as a 'vital war target.'"

STARS FOR ARMY DAY—Lieutenant General Brehon Burke Somervell, left, chief of the Army Service Forces, was a visitor to Atlanta yesterday, and during his short visit conferred with Major General Frederick E. Cuspidor and Fists Fly as Judges Battle in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6. (AP)—Two veteran circuit judges got in a fight today and among the swinging fists and harsh words was a flying cuspidor.

Judge Robert J. Wheeler, about 60, said he went to the chambers of Judge John C. Morrow, 53, to apologize because he had granted a probation hearing to a Negro without knowing that Judge Morrow already had accepted a guilty plea in the case.

"Judge Wheeler called me a liar and I hit him." Judge Morrow reported, declining elaboration.

"We became involved in an argument," Judge Wheeler said, "and Judge Morrow struck me with his fist. I tried to protect myself with a cuspidor, throwing it at Judge Morrow when he started at me with an ash stand."

miles north of that chief Japanese north Burma base.

Two dozen Japanese planes were destroyed during an air smash against the central Burma Aungban airfield.

American Army, Navy and Marine bombers and fighters lashed Truk, struck again at Ponape, on the east flank of the Japanese Caroline fortress, and attacked four Marshall atolls.

FIRES ARE STARTED

An announcement from U. S. Pacific Fleet headquarters said the Truk raiders fired oil storage tanks at Dublon island and started fires on near by Moen. A Navy search plane tore into an enemy tanker off Moen and probably sank it.

One of six Japanese interceptors was shot down during the Truk raid and another probably destroyed. Two U. S. Liberators were lost.

At Ponape an airfield and adjacent buildings were hit.

Japanese shore batteries on Wotje atoll scored two hits on an American destroyer when the ship moved in on that eastern Marshall islands base to rescue a fighter pilot who had been shot down, the Navy said today.

The announcement said only minor damage was caused by the two hits and that the destroyer turned its guns on the shore-based artillery.

"The belief that the war is almost over is fostered by widespread speculation and guesswork. Everyone, it would appear, has already picked a date when he or she thinks the war will be over. That is a rash procedure. Wars are not won on possibilities, but on careful planning and execution."

General Somervell, somewhat more informally, also put the "bee" on thoughtlessly optimistic citizens, saying that there is "a hell of a lot of war yet to be fought and won" before we can start congratulating ourselves on triumph.

"Right now," he said, "my own branch of the service is concerned with two conflicting problems—finding men to fill the demands of the armed forces and finding men to carry on the important work of war production. Finding the proper balance between these two demands is now our biggest job."

General Somervell, spruce and debonair, was particularly interested in Gainesville—where he served eight years ago in that town's rehabilitation after a disastrous windstorm—and expressed disappointment that this tour would not permit him to stop off in the Hall county seat.

General Uhl, making his first public appearance in Atlanta, was introduced to the large crowd at the Ansley hotel yesterday by Brigadier General Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution and adjutant general of the state.

Jackson P. Dick, chairman of the forum committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting, which was attended by a large group of service men as well as many in civilian life. Colonel R. W. Collins, head of the Georgia State Guard, is now commander of the local post of the Military Order of the World War.

Atlanta Jewish Passover Rites To Start Tonight

Jews everywhere will begin the celebration of the "Festival of the Passover" tonight, to commemorate the flight from Egypt by the Children of Israel centuries ago.

Ceremonies celebrating the Passover, which will continue until sundown of April 15, will be held at synagogues here tonight, Saturday and Sunday mornings.

The term "Passover" comes from the Biblical story of the 10 plagues placed on Egypt by God to set His people free. During the 10th plague, when the first-born in every Egyptian home died, the Angel of Death "passed over" the house of Israelites. The festival receives its name from that history.

A highlight of the festival is the home celebration, known to the Jewish people as the Sedar, a ceremonial meal held Friday and Saturday which features Matzo, unleavened bread, and Motor, bitter herbs—symbolizing the bitter treatment received from the Egyptians.

The unleavened bread, which also dates back from the flight from Egypt—when the Israelites hurriedly carried unleavened dough with them and baked it in the sun for food, will be eaten throughout the week.

Before the end of the Passover ceremonies will again be held at the synagogues, on Thursday night and Friday and Saturday mornings next week.

Replacements for the troops withdrawn from Denmark are only partial. Even towns on the strategic Jutland peninsula are being evacuated by Nazi forces.

The Germans apparently have decided to rely on air defenses to halt any possible Allied invasion attempt in the Scandinavian direction. They are enlarging airfields and lengthening runways in Denmark.

Late today the Nazi-controlled Norwegian radio broadcast a police announcement prohibiting all traffic within an area running along the Bergean railroad from Geilo to Haugastoelward and also along the trunk road from Geilo via Dagali Hoeberg to Granli fjord. This ban is to last an entire week.

Arnall Lauds Official For Cutting Expenses

Governor Arnall commended W. N. Pate, head of the state department of purchases, yesterday for his efficiency in cutting expenditures 10 per cent, as compared with department expenditures during the last year of the former administration.

"Pate is doing the best job in my judgment ever done in Georgia," Arnall declared.

Arnall stated that Pate's department has spent $61,000 during the year, as compared to $68,000 spent during the year before he became head of the purchasing department.

Chiropractors Begin Session

Necessity of trained chiropractors in the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army was stressed yesterday by Dr. Emmett J. Murphy, representing the National Chiropractic Association, in his opening address at the tenth annual All-Southern States Chiropractic Convention at the Biltmore hotel.

The opening session of the three-day convention was highlighted by an interpretation by Dr. Ernest A. Thompson, vice president of the National Chiropractic Association, of X-ray and its relation to chiropractic therapy.

George Hamilton, state treasurer, will make an address of welcome at today's session, followed by an address by Dr. Waldo Poehner, considered one of the country's outstanding X-ray technicians.

MANY months before war started, the Telephone Company was already faced with the greatest expansion program in its history. Then immediately following declaration of war, telephone service demands broke all bounds and every demand was urgent.

Overnight the South became the training ground for millions of men called suddenly to the Colors. New shipyards and hundreds of other war industries sprang into being and populations shifted with industry to the South.

These numerous large military camps and war agencies and industries required that vast amounts of telephone facilities be installed in a great hurry. Thousands of miles of new telephone lines and circuits had to be built, and tens of thousands of new telephones installed, together with hundreds of new switchboards. In many places new buildings were built and old ones enlarged to accommodate complete new telephone central offices.

The skill and ingenuity of telephone workers were taxed to the limit, but the job was done. And the South has kept pace with the Nation's head-long drive toward Victory, contributing its full share of those things which make Victory certain.

Courtland Street First City, County Job Completed

The old Belgian block paving on Courtland street fronting the municipal auditorium has passed into limbo.

Resurfacing of the stretch extending from Edgewood avenue to Gilmer street was completed late yesterday by the Sam Finley Construction Company, and the city and Fulton county paid the $1,500 bill on a 50-50 basis.

The improvement is the first joint undertaking completed under a recent agreement between the two governments to share the expense of an extensive resurfacing program designed to improve the condition of streets in the downtown section.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday approved a council resolution providing for the resurfacing of Boulevard from Ponce de Leon avenue to Decatur street, with the city and county bearing that expense. Cost of the Boulevard project is $17,817.

PAUL WHITEMAN, musical director of the Blue Network, says, "Adam Hats complete the harmony of my Spring Wardrobe!"

For that smart appearance, Mr. Whiteman wears the Adam Executive $7.50. Other styles to $10.

HUNDREDS OF DEFENSE WORKERS SAY RETONGA KEPT THEM ON JOB

MR. B. M. BRADFORD

Birmingham Ship Man Among Latest To Give Noted Medicine His Strong Personal Endorsement. Says Thousands Need Retonga Like He Did.

Hundreds of defense workers, both men and women, are hailing praising Retonga for the relief they obtained through this noted medicine, which they say enabled them to stay on the job when the call was for them was grim. For instance, Mr. B. M. Bradford, well known resident of 5113 16th Court, N., Birmingham, Ala., and a ship lay-out man for the Ingalls Ship Building Co., gratefully says of Retonga:

"For several months it seemed to me that I suffered almost every waking hour with indigestion and constipation. No matter what I ate it seemed to lie in my stomach like a rock. Sometimes I would be awake all night long, my stomach so full of gas that I felt like I would choke. I had headache every day and I suffered so badly from constipation that I had to take laxatives continually. I had just about stopped eating for it looked like every time I did eat I would suffer for it.

"But thanks to the relief Retonga gave me I feel as fit as a fiddle now. I eat anything I want and nothing seems to bother me. I sleep as restfully as I did years ago. The constipation is relieved too, and I don't know I have any nerves, as the saying is. Thousands of people must need Retonga like I did, and I am glad to tell them about the relief it gave me."

Mr. Bradford was formerly a resident of Chattanooga. Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal quantities of Vitamin B-1 and is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute.

The special Retonga representative at the Square Deal Drug Store, 10 Broad St., N. W., will gladly tell you all about this noted medicine without obligation.—(Adv.)

al police force to prevent future aggression.

He said in an interview at the 1943 Governors' Conference:

"We have got to have a police force to maintain peace and the United States must be a part of it for our own security and the safety of the world."

PEACE PLANK

It was recalled also that Dewey's 1942 gubernatorial platform urged force, if necessary, to preserve peace.

Representative Gearhart, Republican, California, said there has been a lot of talk among California Republicans of Governor Warren's prospects on a ticket with Governor Dewey, but that they considered Warren also as presidential timber.

"We think Warren is in the running for President as well as vice president," Gearhart said. "He is making a splendid record in California and I know he would make good beyond the greatest expectations in either position."

Gearhart said Warren would be "giving up a lot" if he left the governorship to become vice president.

"Personally, I would like to see Warren attorney general of the United States where he would have an opportunity to show his talents." There have been reports that the California governor might be interested in such a cabinet post.

BRICKER HOPES

While the Dewey-Warren boosters were active, Governor John W. Bricker, of Ohio, who, with Representative Dirksen, of Illinois, are the only active campaigners for the presidential nomination now in the field, told newsmen at Columbus that he hoped to get a share of the Willkie strength.

Bricker spoke in Indianapolis tonight. He speaks in Chicago tomorrow night and then goes to the west coast for a nine-day swing.

Supporters of Lieutenant Commander Harold E. Stassen also predicted a march to their camp of some of the Willkie followers.

STASSEN GAINS

Late Wisconsin election returns indicated tonight that Stassen had gained one more delegate, raising his total to four.

On the basis of returns from 2,820 of the state's 3,076 precincts, the Wisconsin lineup now stands at 15 delegates pledged to Dewey, four pledged to Stassen, three to MacArthur and two uninstructed, but favoring Dewey.

The Democratic candidate list found 25 of the 26 party indorsed Roosevelt pledged candidates winners. One independent won, but she also supported the President.

Willkie refused to amplify his withdrawal statement during a stop-over in Chicago en route to New York.

"You know as much about that as I do," he said when asked whether Governor Dewey would be the GOP nominee.

QUESTIONS UNANSWERED

Willkie still left unanswered the big question whether he would support the convention's choice and what he would do if the selection did not come within his own specifications.

At York, Neb., last Sunday night, the 1940 nominee said it was "inconceivable to me that the . . . convention will be so stupid as to nominate anyone that the millions of people who believe as I do could not as a matter of conscience support."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, said he knew "how Willkie feels." I ran against Governor Thomas E. Dewey myself four years ago in Wisconsin only I was the absentee candidate then," Vandenberg said. "He was campaigning the state. He plowed me under but not too badly. I am proud that 40 per cent of Wisconsin voted for me."

COMMENDS WILLKIE

A Republican congressman from Willkie's home state of Indiana, Representative Grant, today commended Willkie's attitude in "accepting the verdict of the Wisconsin voters," but added "he can now meet his responsibilities as a citizen and as a member of the Republican party by supporting the Republican nominee for President."

Another Republican, Representative Plumley, of Vermont, said Willkie "has almost single-handedly afforded the Republican party its opportunity to win by forcing it to adopt as the principal planks in its platform the principles for which he stands."

"On substantially such a platform," he said in commenting on the Hoosier-New Yorker's withdrawal, "any candidate who is nominated will have to stand, I believe, in order to be elected."

Gerald Smith Hails 'America First' Coup

DETROIT, April 6.—(AP)—Gerald L. K. Smith, organizer and director of the America First party, today said the Wisconsin presidential primary in which delegates for Wendell L. Willkie trailed those favoring Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Lieutenant Commander Harold E. Stassen and General MacArthur "was a great victory for the America First people."

Willkie, campaigning in Wisconsin for the Republican presidential nomination, had said any candidate who did not repudiate "America First and Gerald L. K. Smith cannot possibly be elected President."

"I hope," Smith said in a statement today, "that the other possibilities within the party have learned by now that the way to make votes is not to attack Gerald Smith and the America First movement."

In a letter to Governor Dewey today commenting on an address by Dewey in New York last night, Smith congratulated the governor "on your attack on bigotry and racial prejudice," and added that "I am confident that you have been misinformed concerning my activities."

Dewey, addressing the United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York, said, "The Gerald L. K. Smiths and their ilk must not for one moment be permited to pollute the stream of American life."

Oregon GOP To Enter Willkie on Ballot

SALEM, Ore., April 6.—(AP)—Despite his avowed withdrawal from the presidential race, Wendell Willkie's name will go on the Oregon primary ballot unless he asks in writing that it be stricken.

The 1940 Republican nominee has a ready-made block of 15 convention votes from this state. His was the only Republican nomination for the May 19 primary, and the convention delegates elected then automatically will be pledged to him—unless he makes his withdrawal official.

Cancer Clinic Action Stalled

Advice of City Atorney Jack C. Savage will be sought before the Grady hospital board of trustees files any recommendation on a council ordinance designed to divorce the Albert Steiner cancer clinic from control of the Grady board.

After a lengthy session yesterday the board recessed until 2:30 p. m. next Wednesday to allow time for conferences with Savage regarding the powers of city council to delegate administration of the institution to a board of citizens.

Savage also will review the Steiner will with a view of determining the respective authority of the mayor and council and Steiner trustees in controlling the institution.

Melody, formerly of Boston, came to Atlanta to practice law several years ago. Two of his brothers, Major Philip Melody and Lieutenant Milner Melody, are serving overseas.

Bank of England Loses Norman as Governor

LONDON, April 6.—(AP)—Black-hatted, bearded Montagu C. Norman resigned the governorship of the powerful Bank of England today on the advice of physicians, and directors went outside the immediate ranks to choose as his successor Baron Catto, of Cairncatto, a Scotsman long prominent in the business life of the British Empire, the United States and Russia.

The new governor is only seven years younger than 72-year-old Norman, who was serving his 24th term. Norman's office said "the governor," sometimes called the "mystery man of Threadneedle street," had no immediate plans.

Catto—Thomas Sivewright Catto before he was created a baron in 1936—worked up from an office boy of 16 in a Newcastle shipping office to important directorships, all of which he resigned in 1940 to become an unpaid financial adviser to the treasury.

Gatto's early experiences in Russia and his tenure as vice president of MacAndrews & Forbes Co., of New York, huge chemical manufacturing concern, from 1908 to 1919, influenced his choice for posts during the last war on the Russian commission and as chairman of the Allied provisions export commission.

He takes up work in the international banking field, where Norman undoubtedly was a master, with the Russian-English-American monetary agreement a commanding problem over and above such irritating invasion questions as pegging francs and guilders to pounds.

The new governor's close association with the British treasury the last few years and his knowledge of the inner workings of the Bank of England which he served briefly as a director in 1940 are expected to stand him in good stead in solving the complexities of the world's present muddled finances and postwar problems.

The governorship pays approximately $20,000 a year, compared with $80,000 paid chairmen of some other banks.

Pets', Owners' Reunion Aided

A more direct and effective way of reuniting impounded pets with their owners will become effective tomorrow, Dr. James F. Hackney, director of the city health department, and W. M. Brown, pound manager, have announced.

Under the old plan, owners were forced to contact the city hall, which in turn arranged for release of impounded dogs and other pets. The new, streamlined program provides that owners shall contact the pound—hemlock 3276—from 8:45 a. m. until 4:45 p. m. on week days and from 10 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. on Sundays and holidays.

No calls at the city hall are needed, but a direct contact with Brown will get service, Dr. Hackney said.

Files have been moved from the city hall to the pound, located at 706 Eighth street, N. W., and all records concerning the animals will be concentrated at the pound itself.

Georgia Pilot Hauls Notables On Air Missions

Ferrying by air on ocean-wide flights—anybody from Mrs. Roosevelt to a senatorial committee—is the job of Major Henry T. Myers from Tifton, Ga.

When Mrs. Roosevelt or the senators or a high-ranking brass hat takes off for the Aleutians or an obscure nook in the Carribean, Major Myers is likely to be at the controls of his huge Liberator transport plane, according to an article in the current issue of the American magazine, by J. B. Griswold.

"The boys hate to admit it but they have never been shot at, have never had an accident," Griswold writes in praising the Army's Air Transport Command. "They are the crews," he adds, "that carry the President of the United States, the secretary of state, and other notables on far-flung missions as safely as though they were riding a taxicab to the railroad station."

The author uses Myers and his crew as an example of the qualities of the transport command pilots and crewmen, and quotes Major Myers, who entered the transport command after years as an American airline pilot.

"Flying isn't dangerous as long as the pilot thinks it is. All of us are a little bit scared when we're in the air, for the guy who isn't scared isn't going to live long."

Major Myers, who holds the air medal and Distinguished Flying Cross, is a graduate of the University of Georgia.

Teeth in the OPA

Three Augusta liquor dealers have been sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment on charges of violating Office of Price Administration price ceilings.

Two of the dealers sent to jail were given additional fines of ten thousand dollars each, the other a fine of five thousand. At the same time eleven other Augusta liquor dealers, convicted of violating OPA price ceilings, received fines ranging from $300 to $10,000.

These sentences grew out of a drive in December, a drive, incidentally, which began only after racketeering dealers had been publicly warned that continued violations of price control would result in court cases.

The sentences, admittedly, are severe.

But there was no reason whatsoever for leniency.

Those who seek to profiteer in time of war, who take advantage of the nation's hour of crisis to charge whatever exorbitant figure the traffic will bear, are sabotaging our continuing fight against the tragedy of inflation.

There are teeth in OPA laws. They should be used more often.

Note to 4-F's In and Out of College

A young man placed in 4-F by his draft board is not in a pleasant status. It is a difficult psychological position. It is a trying personal problem.

There seems to be but one practical answer.

Those young men who are 4-F and out of school and in a job not connected with the war effort should immediately get work in an industry related to the production of war materials or at least in some field ruled essential to the conduct of the war.

Those who are 4-F and students in college can serve best by remaining in college. Their position is perhaps more exacting than that of a man in a job. They are thrown in daily contact with men in training and men leaving for the services. Through no fault of their own they cannot go.

They and their parents must realize that they can serve best by completing their education, an education which will be needed greatly in years to come.

It is not easy to be a 4-F. It means there is a necessity for intelligent rationalization on the part of a man who, through no fault of his own, is not able to serve in the armed forces. Go, or stay, where you can serve best—but don't worry and fret about it.

J. Monroe Johnson

The appointment of J. Monroe Johnson to be director of the Office of Defense Transportation is a fortunate one.

Mr. Johnson, a native of Marion, South Carolina, is admirably qualified to fill the vacancy occasioned by the recent death of Joseph B. Eastman.

A member of the Interstate Commerce Commission at the time of his appointment, Mr. Johnson previously served as Assistant Secretary of Commerce during President Roosevelt's second term.

He has been a member of the executive committee of the National Legion since its organization, having served, with the rank of colonel, as chief engineer of the Rainbow Division in the first World War.

Under him the ODT will continue to function smoothly and well.

Pancho Must Be Turning Over

Somehow we are disappointed in Mrs. Celia Villa Datig. Mrs. Datig is the daughter of the late Pancho Villa, famous terror of the border who once thumbed his nose at General Pershing and led him a merry chase through the sands and arroyos of Mexico. She is suing for divorce, charging that her husband told her he didn't love her. Such meekness in act and charge must be causing old Pancho to be turning over in his grave.

His daughter a widow, one might expect. But never a grass one.

The Vanishing Paper Bag

It has not happened in Atlanta, but it can and it may, so if tomorrow or next week, when you purchase a dozen eggs or a few pounds of tomatoes, your grocer asks what you have to carry them in do not be surprised—the familiar and useful paper bag is on the list of wartime scarcities.

One reason for the shortage of paper bags is the fact that housewives, in fact all classes of citizens, have not taken seriously the appeal to save all waste paper and turn it in for salvage purposes. In England every little scrap of waste is saved; we have not come to that degree of scarcity as yet, but we are indifferent about what becomes of old newspapers and such which are needed by the mills that turn out material for paper sacks, cardboard cartons and other containers.

Do not destroy it—turn it in. A list of telephone numbers appears in The Constitution every day. Phone one of them and a truck will call for your old papers.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

(The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.)

Two Sides

Editor, Constitution: I understand now why Gladstone Williams was pro-New Deal and that the administration could do no wrong; he was a bachelor and consequently was one-tracked. After a few years of married life Mr. Williams will find out that there are two sides to every question, his side and that of Mrs. Williams, just like pro and anti-administration.

O. B. PEELY.

Atlanta.

"We in Uniform"

Editor, Constitution: We in uniform wish to confirm Ralph McGill's fine article on the 4-F situation which has become a rather sore thumb as far as the boys in the service are concerned.

To get one thing straight, we don't despise the real 4-F that is unfit for military service but we do hit at the supposed 4-F that is keeping out of service by the golden rule of essential to defense when there are 10 others that can take his place.

Surely, certain 4-F's have an inferiority complex and they should when they attempt to go places limited mostly for the servicemen.

A man that is incapable of military service can do essential defense work (and we don't mean driving a cab around). You know most of the boys in service have a pretty fair understanding of what is going on and they don't glance at a man in civilian clothes but, when a fellow's conscience bothers him to the extent that he must tell someone about abuse by all and everyone, something is wrong in Denmark.

CORPORAL JOHN L. KELLY.
Fort Benning, Ga.

4-F's Also Serve

Editor, Constitution: I usually agree with your viewpoint and find your opinions effectively presented. However, this Faulty Fugitive from a Fate of Fighting would like to enter a protest against both your "One Word More" of Tuesday and the whimpering in the letter from which you quoted.

Free of any self-pity I can say that we 4-F's have in our ranks radar technicians and airplane mechanics, as well as parasites like me who fight diseases prone 24 hours a day. If we are so useless, why all the furore about compulsory civilian service for 4-F's? Could Steinmetz or even George Washington have passed the physical?

A country has to demand sacrifices according to what the individual can do, in order to survive. A civilized society attempts to eliminate unavoidable inequality of sacrifice, and often fails. Where it fails, the blame must rest on the whole nation as well as the group or groups within which individuals fail to do their part voluntarily, such as 4-F's, women, people above draft age, ministers, industrialists, etc.

IVAN C. RUTLEDGE.
Carnesville, Ga.

(McGill's column advised a whimpering 4-F who thought the girls didn't like him any more, to forget himself and make himself useful by getting a war job. There was no criticism of 4-F's.)

School Lunches

Editor, Constitution: I wish to thank you most heartily and sincerely for your unusually interesting column in The Constitution of April 1 concerning the school lunchroom program.

Thousands of children make their grades each year because of having access to a good, wholesome lunch at school who otherwise would be repeaters. Therefore, the money spent for lunches saves many times the amount of money spent because children are able to make their grades.

M. D. COLLINS,
State Superintendent of Schools.

'Tragically True'

Editor Constitution: I have written Senator Russell that I have moved here from LaGrange, but I still read The Atlanta Constitution and I'm moved by Mr. Ralph McGill's "One Word More" in last Saturday's edition to add my word of commendation and hope that his effort to continue federal aid for school children's lunches will be successful.

I think McGill put the whole situation very effectively except that he might have given very effective emphasis to the result of malnutrition during the depression of the thirties upon the military quality of our young men today. For something like a year I was chairman of the Red Cross committee which supervised the distribution of government flour and clothing in Troup county, and gave a great deal of time to personally looking after it. I saw the need in hundreds of cases, and those boys of six to 15 then are the young men of 18 to 26 today who are disqualified because of bad eyesight, poor teeth, and other physical defects due in large part to lack of proper and sufficient food. From a purely military standpoint we cannot afford to let another generation grow up under the same handicap. Though the numbers are no doubt smaller now, they are sufficiently large to justify every effort to take care of them.

The truth of what Mr. McGill says about the failure of local help is too tragically true.

JOSEPH D. C. WILSON.
Foley, Ala.

Courage

Editor, Constitution: The teachers of Calhoun county appreciate your efforts in behalf of the teachers of Georgia. We know it takes courage to take such a definite stand for a cause that has proved, if not unpopular, a matter of indifference to a majority of the people. FRANK HARMON.
President Calhoun County Teachers' Association.

RALPH McGILL

Party of Negation Has a Real Chance

In its editorial comment on the withdrawal of Wendell Willkie from the Republican primaries and convention, the strongly anti-Roosevelt Baltimore Sun said:

"We venture the opinion that the outcome will show that Mr. Willkie's dramatic and forceful campaign was not all wasted effort. The man has been a powerful stimulant, forcing Republican and Democratic leaders alike to raise their heads above the rut in which their thinking ordinarily moves . . . but his slashing and belaboring at the sawdust heads in his party, perhaps a factor in his defeat, has made a good many people conscious that a different leadership is needed. If that leadership now arises, who more than Mr. Willkie will have earned the credit?"

The anti-Roosevelt Sun terms the organization leadership of the Republican party "sawdust heads."

Senator Walter F. George, in commenting on Mr. Willkie's dramatic exodus, says:

"Mr. Willkie acted wisely . . . he correctly appraised the Republican party as the party of negation . . . and its present course as one of negation."

That is a politer way of saying that the Republican organization leadership is one directed by sawdust heads.

The progressive Republican leadership went along with Willkie.

The old-line, stand-pat, status-quo leadership, which always has bossed the party, now has regained strength and state organizations. They are men of negation and they will remain so.

They will not look elsewhere for leadership. They are determined on Dewey and they will have him on the first ballot.

MR. HERBERT HOOVER It now is revealed from several sources that Herbert Hoover, who once amazed the oculists by claiming to be able to see around the corner, is one of the chief masterminds behind Dewey.

Herbert Hoover has organized the financial interests of the Republican party for the greatest war chest in history, and he has, or claims to have, enough pledges to bring in Earl Warren, Governor of California and Hoover's close friend, as the vice president.

This is not surprising. For weeks now the best information has been that, unless Willkie could upset the arrangements with a great popular support, the ticket would be Dewey and Warren.

It is well known, too, that the plan calls for Dewey to follow a plan which would be typical of Hoover. That is to say, we may expect Dewey to indicate (as did Harding and Hoover) support of some vague, unstated, undefined plan for "international co-operation." That would mean nothing, but would take the curse off the charge of isolationism, yet would not lose the party any of its isolationist support.

Dewey, it is planned, will startle and pain some of the more rabid anti-administration Republicans, by coming out in favor of most, and perhaps all, of the administration's social program. He will attack the administration on "bureaucracy," "waste," and "inefficient methods of administration." He will attack what he will call "the mess of government."

The party's course will be, as Senator George says, one of carefully planned negation. It will do nothing to alienate all the "again" votes. It will seek all those who are angry with OPA, with the conduct of the war, with selective service, with farm prices, with ceiling prices, and so on.

It will carefully and skillfully provide a haven for all those who are angry and who want, not to vote for someone, but against someone.

GOOD CHANCE Let us make no mistake. Tom Dewey will have an excellent chance to win. It appears that the middle west, in addition to being anti-administration over farm prices, is again turning toward isolationism, as it did in 1918, 1919 and 1920.

If this is true, and if the course of the war does not, and cannot, change it, the cold fact which the Democrats may as well face is that Mr. Tom Dewey is the favorite to win the November election.

Most of the "lost votes" are Democratic. This is another fact which must be scored in Dewey's behalf. It is estimated, for instance, that in New York state there are a million voters who voted in 1940 but who will not vote this year. They are in the Army or they have left their state or home county to work at war jobs and will not be able to vote. It is estimated that in Pennsylvania there are some 600,000 of these "lost" votes. It is true, in one degree or another, all over the nation.

It is estimated that of the lost votes at least 65 to 75 per cent are Democratic party votes, since most of them are working men, farmers and "little" people generally.

So, much hinges on whether or not this country is drifting toward an isolationist policy as it did during and after the first World War.

It is a tragic thing to contemplate that we may be again fighting a war to make this a world safer from the ravages of war, only to have public opinion drift back again to the idea that we can live alone and that we are safe from the troubles of the world if we only keep still.

If we are going that way, Mr. Dewey is as good as in as President of the United States.

Russian Approach to Ploesti Oil Bound To Undermine Nazi Morale

(Ralph Jones, whose column usually appears here, is ill. He will resume writing at an early date.)

Every soldier, plane and gun which the Russians put out of action is one less which the coming Anglo-American western invasion front will have to face.

This is the over-all value to us of the Russian advance into Rumania. Its strategic maneuver value is the approach to the Ploesti oil fields, the only large source of natural oil supply at German command.

The sentimental value is the thrill for all Russians in having crossed the border into enemy country after having fought for nearly three years to drive the enemy out of Russia.

Again the weather has been against the Germans, as it was when they were close to Moscow in '41, and when they were driven farther and farther back from Stalingrad in frost-bitten rout from their hedge-hog system of defense in the winter of '42-'43.

Wasn't it in the winter of '41-'42 that Hitler bluffed himself and the German people by saying Providence had chosen him as their leader? He was right back to the old "divine right of kings" line, the "Me und Gott" line of Kaiser William II of World War I.

PROVIDENCE UNIMPRESSED But it seemed that Providence did not take Hitler's advice about the weather. Instead of the normal spring weather in '44, as the German army staff got it in the meteorological records, Providence proceeded to produce quite unseasonable weather in southern Russia for the past three weeks.

Normal weather would have mired the Russian offensive in the mud of the spring thaw, and then when the ground hardened the Germans would have their opening to snap back in a counter-attack which would badly muss up the floundering Russians.

But the weather was on Stalin's side instead, at a time when Hitler looked toward a summer in which he needed help from any direction, no matter how small it was. The thaw and the rains were so gentle and even, in such excellent teamwork with Russian army plans, that the ground remained suitably hard for the Russian offensive which made the most of it by continuing to shove ahead.

There's Odessa, the great Russian Black sea port, which the Germans fought so hard to win, as good as lost. Far back of the Russian lines, cut off to stew in their own juice, are the German and Rumanian divisions in the Crimean peninsula which the Germans could not take until the summer of '42 by conquest of the fortress of Sevastopol. The only escape these divisions can have is by sea.

IRRECOVERABLE SETBACK All this, however, is an irrecoverable setback for Hitler, a past worry in contrast with the present position of his line in the south.

For the Russians, to be at the foot of the Carpathian range in the north, opposite Czechoslovakia, is as mighty a triumph for them as to be in Rumania. They are close to Jassy in Rumania. That means they have one of the two lateral railroads east of the Carpathians for maneuver of reinforcements along the German front in southern Rumania.

Lose the second one, and while the Germans have two direct line railroads for retreat in Rumania, one north and one south, there, in the south, is the big danger.

There, south of the southern spur of the Carpathians, the Ploesti oil fields are exposed to a concentrated Russian drive. And by this time every German soldier and every Russian can quickly understand what their loss will mean to Germany.

If the Russians can accomplish this much in the spring thaw in south Russia, what may they accomplish by thrusts on their long line in the summer when Hitler also faces the western front invasion?

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Praise For Dies

NEW YORK—The Dies committee received unexpected, if grudging, praise from a New Dealer in a recent congressional discussion of the use of the radio to smear statesmen and other citizens who have resisted the Roosevelt government's alliance with the Communists. On that occasion, Adolph J. Sabath, of Chicago, the dean of the lower house, was discussing a book called "Under Cover," compiled from information already dredged up by Congressman Dies and his investigators. The author of this compendium had presented this material as though it were new and startling stuff. Thousands of copies had been sold under the artificial sales stimulus of the New Deal-Communist political axis, operating in print and over the air.

"Nearly all the charges which appeared in 'Under Cover' can be found in the evidence obtained and presented to the (Dies) committee," Mr. Sabath said. "I call attention to the appendix of the report of the committee in which appear the names of 652 individuals, 115 organizations and 33 publications in connection with an investigation of George Sylvester Viereck and Nazi activities. I believe it contains more damaging evidence than that which appears in 'Under Cover.' Some gentlemen have suggested that the sale of 'Under Cover' be stopped. I have a suggestion as to how it may be done and that is by having reprints of Part VII of the appendix published for which there will be a large demand by reason of the fact that it contains more complete information about the treasonable and seditious activities of the Hitler-financed organization and publicists than 'Under Cover'."

Sabath Perplexed

Pretending to be naive, Mr. Sabath wondered why this free public material did not receive the same publicity that was given to some disclosures of Communist filtration into the Roosevelt government and the Communist union dictatorship over masses of American citizens in the unions. He is not naive, however. Mr. Sabath knows all the tricks and switches of European propaganda methods.

The reasons reveal themselves when the facts are inspected.

In the first place the information did receive great publicity and the Department of Justice has been going to the Dies committee's files for data on which to base indictments and prosecutions of enemy agents and of Americans who, unwisely, or for culpable reasons, associated with them. Some of the latter are, as Mr. Sabath knows, brave and intensely patriotic Americans who opposed involvement in the war before Pearl Harbor and could not help it that the enemy agents and some doubtful Americans played along with them but for other reasons. But the Department of Justice has never gone after either the traitorous Communists or those radicals of the Roosevelt following who played along with them and continue to do so. Mr. Roosevelt's friend and political ally, Sidney Hillman, is one of the latter group.

Be it remembered that the Communists were not merely isolationists. They were Axis collaborationists, appeasers and saboteurs until Hitler attacked Russia. They co-operated with the anti-American Bund and tried to associate themselves with the America First Committee. They were active, violent traitors to the United States, and they promoted dangerous fraudulent strikes against the national defense at North American and Allis-Chalmers.

The Reason

The reason why the Communists have received so much continuing publicity is that they were welcomed back into agencies of the government and other positions of power after Hitler attacked Russia. Some of the worst offenders in the CIO unions have received permanent draft deferment on appeal to the President while decent Americans with children, established homes, mortgages and financial commitments which will wipe them out and may leave their families destitute, have been called away to fight.

The FBI and the Department of Justice have been on top of the pro-Axis element and some good and loyal Americans who unwittingly associated with them, like a chicken on a June bug. But Communists, themselves, and persons who associated with them have been taken under the Roosevelt wing. The Office of War Information has been crawling with them.

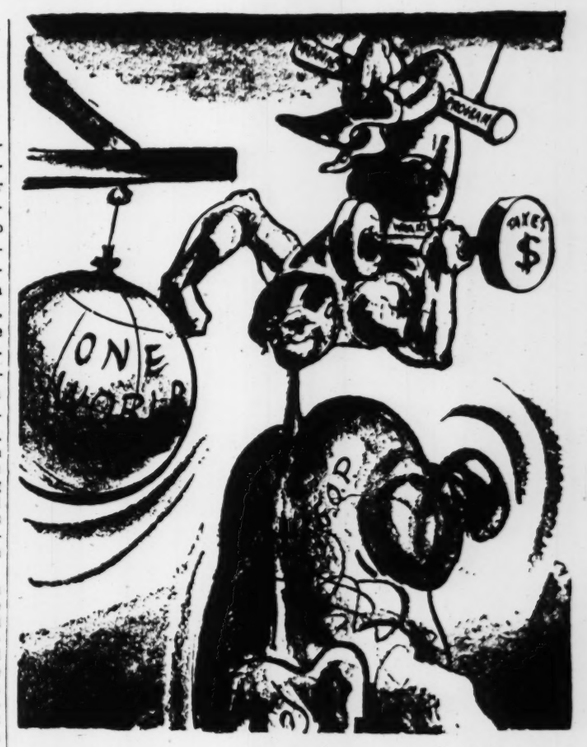

The Dies committee, however, has kept after them and those who have knowingly associated with traitors and saboteurs and enemies of the American government as Mr. Biddle, the attorney general, once called the Communists in an unguarded moment of exasperation.

And there you have the reason for the New Deal-Communist campaign to discredit the Dies committee.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

SEED LAW NEEDED
(The Sparks Eagle.)

Many south Georgia farmers are facing a loss because what they bought for cabbage seed is now turning out to be collards. One grower over in Colquitt county has discovered that he has 60 acres of the collards and hopes that he can find a market. It is said that due to the war, there is a shortage of seed from the Scandinavian countries, which normally supply this section, and that the seed giving the trouble were grown in this country. The Georgia seed law should be amended to protect the growers in cases of this kind.

Goolsby To Clean Up Things in Congress?

An Albany lady writes in to inquire why don't I manage John W. Goolsby's campaign for the senatorial seat now occupied by Walter F. George.

I wrote her back that while it is true that insanity runs in my family, it is not of the political variety.

Besides, Mr. Goolsby has been announced almost a week now and he is still as quiet as Governor Dewey, which is, as I write this, quite quiet indeed.

It may well be, of course, that Mr. Goolsby intends to conduct a strictly silent campaign and I will say that there are a great many citizens who would go down the line with any candidate who could be depended upon to keep his mouth shut, both before and after he was elected. Certainly it would be a novelty, for if silence in truth is golden, then there can be no denying that Georgia, in so far as her politicians are concerned, has been off the gold standard many more years than somewhat.

Nevertheless, I am extremely dubious as to Mr. Goolsby's chances of being elected on the basis of a hush-hush campaign. To be successful in politics, a man can get away with not being literate, but never with not being loud.

Be that as it may, Mr. Goolsby's candidacy does admittedly intrigue me. Is he really in earnest, I cannot but wonder, or does he just intend to keep his foot in the door until peace brings a new supply of vacuum cleaners to purvey to a waiting public?

Of course, if he is serious, Mr. Goolsby's campaign is a natural. "Clean Up Congress" will be his slogan. Or maybe "A New Vacuum Sweeps Clean."

If elected, he would not, come to think of it, be the first great name to make the jump from vacuum cleaners to politics.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Everything Is Set For the Invasion

WASHINGTON.—There are reasons to believe that the original date set at the Quebec and Teheran conferences for opening the second front has been postponed. Spring is now well upon us and nothing has happened. It was the assumption of usually well informed government sources last winter that the drive against Hitler's European fortress would be launched not later than the coming of spring.

In matters of such military secrecy nothing can be vouched for, of course, but various reports have come from sources which ordinarily could be trusted, that the second front, as originally planned, was to get under way sometime between the last of February and the middle of March. It is now the first week in April.

If it is true that we and the British have postponed the original scheduling, it must be apparent why we have done so. Developments on the eastern front have removed the pressure which existed a year ago for hasty action. There is no longer any danger of the Germans knocking the Russians out of the war before we can get into it on a full scale.

If anything, the very reverse is true. The Red army has the Hitlerite hordes on the run, and all thought of a Russian collapse is now passed.

CAUTION PERMISSIBLE That favorable turn in events on the eastern front has enabled the Allies to proceed more cautiously with plans for the invasion of Europe. We are taking steps to hold our losses to a minimum when the grand assault starts.

It must be evident, also, that the longer we delay the operation the weaker will be Germany's power to resist, thanks to the devastating effect of the increasing air blows we are raining down on the Reich.

All speculation as to the time and place of the second front has been ruled out by the censorship office, but it is permissible to describe the present stage, as the British have done, as "about five minutes" before the zero hour.

Even the Germans are now proclaiming the imminence of our attack, in strange contrast with the claims of Goebbels not many months ago that no attempt at setting foot on European soil would be undertaken or could possibly succeed. At the same time, Hitler was passing off the second-front threat with the remark that we would be lucky if it lasted nine minutes.

Recently the Voelkischor Beobachter, Nazi party organ, told its readers the following:

"Everything suggests with a fair amount of certainty that an invasion attempt on a tremendous scale will take place in the not too distant future, and will be launched with an overwhelming superiority in men and material and regardless of cost. The enemy will employ every possible means of combat, and will not be discouraged by an initial setback."

That is a considerable change from the earlier attitude of the Nazi warlords. They do not hesitate to admit now that we are on the verge of striking, and the tenor of their comment shows that they have lost most of their old cockiness.

In view of the censorship ban, it is not proper to speculate on whether the second front will come tomorrow, the next week, the next month or some succeeding month. But we do have the apparent certainty that it will come, as the Germans have said, "in the not too distant future."

ALL IN READINESS Everything is in readiness in England for the blow. South England has been converted into the greatest military arsenal ever known in history. We know this both from official statements and official photographs released by the British government. Acres of ground have been given over to the storage of guns, tanks and ammunition that will be used in the assault. Tanks by the thousands are on hand for the use of American and British armored forces.

So much material has been dispatched to England for the great enterprise that the British were unable to provide facilities for its storage. The result is that the munitions and supplies have been strewn along the byways and highways of the invasion route, covered with canvas for protection against the elements. We have had photographs of tanks being scattered along the English roads in this manner for miles.

Naturally we must be planning to put these instruments of war into early use or we would not be spreading them out so. The second front, therefore, cannot be too far away.

It may not come this month or in May, which was the month the Germans launched their invasion of the Low Countries in 1940, but come before the summer is gone it will. And, when it does, we will have reached the sublime climax of the war.

HAROLD MARTIN

Saved—By a Cup Of Coffee

Any day you come up the road from Columbus to Atlanta you can pick up a covey of soldiers hitchhiking, and if it's a weekend after payday, you could stack them all over the car as there are so many.

They generally fall into two classifications: those who get in and say "Much obliged," and make a few minutes' polite conversation and then quietly drop off to sleep and snore all the way, and those who get in and say "much obliged" and start making conversation and keep on making conversation in a steady stream until you put them out at Spring and Marietta.

Such a one was Private Harold Montrey, of Detroit, a little square-jawed guy whose tongue still holds a little of the quaint French flavor of his voyageur ancestors.

"You know," he says, lighting a cigarette, "I am very near being a dead man."

"That is strange," I say. "You do not appear to be particularly [illegible]."

HE'S A PARATROOPER

"No," he says. "It is not of [illegible] I am nearly dead. I will tell you how it is. I am of the paratroops, as you can see, and I am one who is assigned to the guard house for two weeks to guard AWO's who must be taken out each day and permitted to pick up paper and bits of debris from the grounds.

"You saw the story which appeared in the papers about the two prisoners who had shot their guard and departed from the post in a jeep and later were captured? Well, I am the guard for these prisoners in the morning of the day they escape, and do you know what they explain to the provost marshal when they are captured?"

"No," I said. "I do not know what conversation took place between them and the provost marshal."

Private Montrey paused dramatically.

"They told him," he said, "that it is their plan to make their escape in the morning but that the guard who has them in the morning permits them to drink a cup of coffee and they do not have the heart to shoot a guard who has been so kind to them."

"Well, well, well," I said, not knowing what else to say. "Is that a fact?"

GAVE ONE A DOLLAR

"Yes," he said. "I recall the incident well. They have been working very well in the morning and have not caused me any trouble. So when we near a place where coffee may be obtained I decide that I will give them a break. So I give one of them a dollar and tell him he may obtain cups of coffee for the three of us, and we drink the coffee and they return to me the change from the dollar and continue picking up the bits of paper without making any disturbance.

"Then in the afternoon I draw another couple of prisoners and the guard who draws the two for whom I have bought the coffee is shot in the back and killed with his own gun. So I am saved by a cup of coffee."

"What happens," I said, "if a guard who is confronted by prisoners who are determined to escape just permits them to go on their way without remonstrance," I ask.

"That does not take place," said Private Montrey, "because the guard knows that if he permits his prisoners to escape he will have to serve a term in the guard house himself. Some say it is six months. Some say he must serve out the term the prisoner who escapes was serving. Some say he must serve until the prisoner is caught. I am not clear on this, but I know the penalty is so severe that the guard does not even consider letting them go their way."

HIS DUTY TO SHOOT

"What happens if a guard shoots a prisoner who is trying to escape?"

"This," said Private Montrey, "is his duty. He is required to call 'Halt' until he is positive the departing prisoner has heard the order. Then he must shoot if the prisoner does not halt."

Private Montrey looked out the window of the car, down toward the little white houses in Pine Mountain valley.

"Saved," he murmured, "by a cup of coffee. And I remember thinking at the time it is not very good coffee and I wished I had not squandered my 15 cents."

That's the way it goes. You can always hear a story when you pick up a GI. It would be nice to know how much you hear is true.

Burglar Alarm Rights Upheld

A municipality is within its legal rights in operating a burglary alarm system for paid subscribers, the Georgia supreme court has ruled in holding that the Fulton superior court erred in not sustaining a demurrer of the city of Atlanta to a suit brought by Bob Lee, operator of a private alarm system.

In the decision upholding the right of a city to operate a burglary alarm system as a police function, Justice Atkinson, all justices concurring, wrote, "We know of no activity in which a municipality may engage that is more essentially a government function than the apprehension of criminals and the suppression of crime."

Lee had contended that the city of Atlanta was engaging in a private enterprise and so created a monopoly.

In another ruling the court affirmed a ruling of Fulton superior court denying a writ of habeas corpus to Merle Williams who sought to prevent extradition to New Hampshire to complete a sentence after having finished a prison term in the federal penitentiary here.

The court affirmed another Fulton superior court decision denying Marion M. Broyles a writ of habeas corpus. Broyles sought to avert return to Alabama to complete a sentence there for burglary after serving a federal prison sentence here.

Newspaperman Raised To Council of Apostles

SALT LAKE CITY, April 6.—(AP)—The first presidency of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) church today elevated a 43-year-old newspaper executive to its council of 12 apostles.

Mark Edward Petersen, general manager of the Deseret News, Utah's oldest newspaper and owned by the church, was appointed to the council, filling a vacancy created through the excommunication of Apostle Richard R. Lyman.

Elder Petersen became junior apostle, in years and also in membership.

He began his newspaper career in 1924 as a reporter on the newspaper and became manager in 1941. He'll retain his newspaper position until the apostleship calls for his full attention.

ERNIE PYLE

Finds Dugouts With Comforts Of Home

WITH FIFTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY.—(By Wireless)—Practically everybody on the Anzio beachhead who is back of the outer defense line has his home underground. We correspondent don't have, but that's merely because we haven't got any sense. Also, it could possibly be because we're lazy.

At any rate, this beachhead is so dug up that an underground cross-section of it would look like a honeycomb. Even tanks and jeeps are two-thirds buried for protection.

The soldiers' dugouts are made by digging a square or rectangular hole about shoulder deep, then roofing it with boards and logs, piling earth on top of that, and digging a trench out from it with steps leading up.

DIGGING EASY

Digging is extremely easy here, for the soil is almost pure sand. Two men can dig a hole big enough for their home in an hour. Two or three hours more, if they have the timbers ready, is enough to finish the simpler type of dugout.

It's pleasant to dig in sand, but it has its disadvantages. The sides cave in easily. Now and then a man is buried in his dugout. Even the concussion from our own big guns will start the walls of a dugout to sliding in.

The average dugout houses two men. It's just big enough for their blanket rolls, and you have to stoop when you get into it.

A tank crew always digs in just a few feet from the tank, for which they also dig a hole. The boys then run wires from their tank battery into their dugout, for electric lights. They have straw on the floor, and shelter halves hung at the entrance.

SLEEP ON GROUND

Most of the men sleep on the ground, while most of the officers have cots. But it's not bad sleeping on the ground in a dugout, for you keep both warm and dry.

Some dugouts have board walls to keep the sand from caving in. Others use the more primitive method of log supports in each corner with shelter halves stretched between them to hold back the sand.

It takes a lot of lumber to shore up all those thousands of dugouts. The boys rustle up anything they can find out of old buildings. The two most coveted pieces of equipment from deserted houses are wooden doors and wall mirrors. The doors are used for dugout ceilings, and it's a poor dugout indeed that hasn't got a fancy mirror on the wall.

From the basic two-man dugout, which is usually bare except for a shelf, a mirror and some pin-up girls, these underground homes run on up to the fantastic in elaborateness.

BEST DUGOUTS

One of the best I've seen was built by Lieutenant Edward Jacques, of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and his driver, Private Russell Lusher, of Marion, Ind. They have a wooden floor, shelves and nails on the wall for every item, a writing desk with table lamp, a washstand with big mirror, porcelain lampshades with little Dutch girls painted on them—and best of all, hidden on a shelf I noticed two fresh eggs.

But the finest dugout I've seen belongs to four officers of a tank company. This dugout is as big as the average living room back home. You can stand up in it, and it has a rough wooden floor. It has a drawing table in the center, and numerous chairs. The four officers sleep on cots around the walls.

Books and magazines and pipes and pictures are scattered on tables all over the place, just like home. They have a radio, and on the table is a sign listing the bets of various people on when the invasion of western Europe will come.

BREW TEA

The officers brew hot tea or chocolate every afternoon and evening. The dugout is heated to the baking point by one of these funny Italian stoves, which for some reason are always painted pink. The officers chop their own wood for the stove.

To go with the pink stove, the boys dug up from somewhere a huge overstuffed chair covered in old-rose upholstery. They have named their dugout "The Rose Room."

They have several electric lights, and the crowning luxury of this palatial establishment is a Rube Goldberg arrangement of ropes and pulleys, whereby one of the lieutenants can switch off the light after he gets in bed. They even have a big white dog, slightly shell-shocked, to lie on the hearth.

From all this you might draw the deduction that war isn't hell after all. Well, these men can and do go into battle 20 minutes away, and every day and every night shells and bombs fall around them, and it's an unusual day when somebody isn't killed within their own little village of dugouts.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- By Hatlo

NATIONAL PRESS COMMENT:

On the Significance of Wendell Willkie's Withdrawal

Newark Star-Ledger (Independent): "This is not as cheerful a prospect for Dewey as it would at first appear. Dewey's best prospect for triumph in November lay in the hope of beating Willkie at the convention and obtaining his active support as a campaigner thereafter. Dewey would have obtained more profit from the Wisconsin primary if Willkie had been defeated less decisively. President Roosevelt would appear to be the chief gainer, since the Republican party in Wisconsin has chosen to make a dramatic spectacle of its isolationism."

Jacksonville, Fla., Journal (Independent-Democrat): "From the day Willkie pitched his hat into the ring in 1940, he gave Americans the picture of a rugged, energetic, spectacular man. Can it be that Americans are today tired of the spectacular? People's nerves are on edge. The war gives everybody plenty of disturbing moments. Can it be that Americans now look for leaders who give them a feeling of calmness and assurance rather than that of nervousness, uncertainty, and spectacular performance?"

Pittsburgh Post-Gazette (Independent): "Wendell Willkie's withdrawall as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination completely altered the whole aspect of the campaign. . . . The 1940 Republican standard bearer is an outspoken individual. He does not believe in trying to fool the public and he refuses to fool himself. He is through as a candidate but it does not follow necessarily that he is through as a factor in national politics. . . . Mr. Willkie's withdrawal makes Governor Dewey a strong favorite at the moment but it is hazardous to venture predictions more than two months before the convention meets.

Utica, N. Y., Daily Press (Independent): "While Willkie thus takes himself out of the presidential picture, it is the people who have been defeated—or have defeated themselves—rather than Willkie. He brought into Republican politics, on a national scale, the first breath of fresh air since Theodore Roosevelt. Like Roosevelt, he was hated and opposed by the party regulars, who are more concerned with partisan advantage than with the nation's welfare."

Buffalo, N. Y., Courier-Express (Independent): "Mr. Willkie showed . . . courage when he faced the hard truth revealed in the Wisconsin primary and withdrew from the presidential race. When historians get American politics of the last few years in proper perspective, they will see Willkie as the man who was right—but who was right at what the so-called practical politicians would call the wrong time. He has been so right he has annoyed, angered and frightened the top men in both parties. . . . Now the man who was right bows himself out of the presidential race — but he can't bow himself out of the American scene where his figure looms larger than ever before."

Boston Globe (Independent): "If he (Dewey) does want the nomination this year, he knows today that he is in a worse position than before Willkie pulled out. So long as Willkie was a threat, Dewey was the best bet to stop Willkie. But with Willkie out, the party machine is free to look around for someone who will be easier to handle than Dewey."

Schenectady (N. Y.) Union-Star (Independent Republican): " . . . We have not heard the last of Mr. Willkie. . . . He is an evangelist who sees pitfalls ahead and who tries to warn against them. . . . Governor Dewey unquestionably can have the nomination, but can he beat the President? That's something else."

Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle (Republican): "The full implications of this development cannot be appraised at a glance, but it seems on its face to raise Mr. Dewey's stock almost prohibitively beyond the reach of all other candidates. This assumes, of course, that the convention will insist on drafting him by such a powerful majority that he will feel compelled to yield."

Bergen Evening Record (Hackensack, N. J.) (Independent): "He (Willkie) has been, if not the only Republican candidate able to see clearly the great issues of the time, at least the only one who has spoken forthrightly about them. His withdrawal has the curious effect of practically handing the nomination to a man who has not declared himself a candidate and who has said not a word on the tremendous problems facing this nation . . ."

Little Rock (Ark.) Democrat (Democrat): "Wendell Willkie has one virtue . . . not enjoyed by many Americans—he knows when he's licked. . . . It probably tickled the old guard . . . pink. They got rid of the smart Alec who has delighted in prodding them with their shortcomings, and even had the audacity to admit that President Roosevelt had acted wisely in some instances."

Hartford Courant (Republican): "It can be said that he (Willkie) made an important contribution in arousing the nation."

Boston Herald (Independent Republican): "(Willkie) was the most stimulating and vigorous Republican who has come forward in a generation."

Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer (Democrat): " . . . It is now clear that no candidate who takes a forthright position has a chance to win the Republican nomination."

PM (New York) (Independent): "Roosevelt must run again. . . . It was decided in the Wisconsin primary. The isolationists and reactionaries, the labor baiters and small politicians of the Republican party have finally achieved their supreme triumph—the burial of Wendell Willkie's presidential candidacy."

New York World-Telegram (Independent): "Will he remain a Republican, and actively support the party's nominee to bring about a change in national administration which Willkie has been demanding? This question existed before the Wisconsin primary. Indeed, it was a major factor in his defeat."

Syracuse (N. Y.) Herald-Journal (Independent): "Evidently it's to be Dewey—Dewey versus Roosevelt. Obviously, Willkie concluded that the cards were stacked against him . . . it has been clear for some time, of course, that a powerful group of Republican national leaders were out to defeat him, and of course the Republican isolationists were dead set against him. But his withdrawal certainly does not mean that he is through . . . "

Roundup of Half Jews Is Ordered by Himmler

LONDON, April 6.—(AP)—Underground sources said today that German Interior Minister Heinrich Himmler, forced by the depletion of Jews in Germany to find new scapegoats to excuse German reverses, has ordered the roundup of all half Jews and Aryans who have married Jews.

These sources said Himmler had ordered Labor Front Leader Robert Ley to collect the new list of undesirables from the armament industry and all "model National Socialist" factories although the action will deprive industry of 300,000 workers, and send them to Poland as labor battalions.

OLLIE REEVES

"Willkie Quits Race for Nomination."—Headline.

Ambition often brings the gall and wormwood to the soul . . .
The path to fame and glory can be tiresome, steep and rough,
And, if the eyes are focused on some evanescent goal,
It should be fabricated from the very sternest stuff.
They told us, in our salad days, ambition knew no bar,
That if we held our courage high and chuckled at defeat,
We, too, might hitch our tiny little wagon to a star
And hope, some day, to occupy the presidential seat.
Alas, the years have come and gone and buried are our dreams . . .
We've watched the eager candidates, in endless ebb and flow,
The perspiration on their brows, their eyes with fevered gleams,
And learned about the tawdriness and tinsel of the show.

So . . . we tell you, Mr. Willkie, since the fatal die is cast,
You'll be happier in oblivion, for when ambition dies,
We forget about the future and the hectic, painful past
And we pick ambition's coffin out and try it on for size.
Though you never know the glory and the happy sense of power
Signing all those bills and vetoes as you sprawl beneath the dome,
Just contemplate the satisfaction of each quiet hour . . .
Though you may not govern millions you can keep your wife at home!

Methods Are Equally Bad If They Have Equally Bad Result

John Smith was known as a good liver. He made a lot of money and spent it freely to show himself a good time.

He consumed great quantities of the best and rarest foods; he smoked the most expensive cigarets and kept one going from early morning till late at night; he drank the best whiskies and brandies and the rarest vintage wines.

People called him Rich John Smith to distinguish him from another John Smith who lived on the other side of town and was very poor.

This Poor John Smith was always desperately hard up. Misfortune followed him all his days, and he seldom possessed two pieces of folding money at the same time.

Rich John Smith enjoyed life, for his idea of pleasure was to gratify his senses and feed his appetites, and there was nothing to hinder him. But as a result of his self-indulgence his physical condition was not what is generally called the pink.

A layer of lard surrounded his heart, a mass of lard covered his diaphragm and hung over his belt; his bronchial tubes were irritated and raw; and his liver was in a state best described as a mess.

One beautiful afternoon in April, Poor John Smith, driven to angry despair by his perennial misery, went out in the back yard and hanged himself.

Rich John Smith, at that moment, topped a little rise on his favorite golf course, panted for breath and fell dead.

A moment later both of them stood at the gates of eternity.

The gatekeeper looked sternly at Rich John Smith and said: "Rich John, it is a great sin to kill, no matter whose life you take. You are charged with destroying your life."

"You've got us mixed up," said Rich John. "A lot of people used to do that. Same name, you know. But I enjoyed life too much to kill myself. It was Poor John Smith who did that. You've just made a mistake."

"The mistake is yours," said the gatekeeper. "Poor John ended his miserable life in a moment of madness. He wasn't responsible, but you knew what you were doing."

"I had no thought of killing myself," said Rich John. "I just tried to have a good time. Surely it wasn't a sin to indulge myself a little, even if it did wear me out a little before my time."

"Don't try to kid yourself this late," said the gatekeeper. "Is a murder any less murder because it is done with slow poison instead of a gun? Morality isn't measured by a clock. Take the elevator to the left—going down."

MURPHY IN ALGIERS

ALGIERS, April 6.—(AP)—Robert D. He'll follow through with the brim width that's just right for your face and build. There's the big trick—the reason so many men insist a Bond hat always gives them a lift. Rose O'Neill, Kewpie Artist-Creator, Is Dead

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 6—(AP)—Rose O'Neill, artist-creator of the kewpie doll, died today at the home of relatives. She was about 69 years old.

Miss O'Neill, former wife of Harry Leon Wilson, humorist-author, designed the kewpie in 1909 and it made her a fortune estimated at more than $1,000,000.

After living abroad and in New York for many years, she returned in 1937 to her Ozarks mountain farm in nearby Taney county.

Miss O'Neill and Wilson were divorced after five years of marriage. She was first married to Gray Latham, a Virginian, from whom she also was divorced.

'Lady in Dark' Sets New High

By PAUL JONES,
Movie Editor.

Paramount's surrealistic comedy, "Lady in the Dark," wowed an overflow crowd at the Fox theater last night when Ginger Rogers and company made their entrance in this enchanting Technicolor fantasy—a story of a female publisher who could never make up her mind.

Adapted from Moss Hart's successful Broadway play, "Lady in the Dark," reaches a new high in color production and imagination. It is fully three years ahead of anything Hollywood has yet turned out. The Kurt Weill-Ira Gershwin tunes are skilfully woven into the picture, and each Technicolor setting is a production within itself.

Miss Rogers is superb in the title role, and Jon Hall, Warner Baxter and Ray Milland are equally impressive as the three loves in Ginger's life.

'Broadway Rhythm' All Name Implies

"Broadway Rhythm," which opened at Loew's yesterday, should be a hit. It has catchy music, it has what is generally known as gorgeous Technicolor, and it has George Murphy, Ginny Simms, Gloria de Haven, Charles Winninger, Tommy Dorsey, Lena Horne, Hazel Scott, Rochester, et al, et al. Of course, when there isn't any music—fortunately it's plentiful—the plot sometimes drags, and a few good bellylaughs would have speeded things up, but all in all it ought to catch the public's fancy.

Ginny Simms' warbling is better than ever, but she finds herself hard pressed in the glamor department by little Gloria de Haven. Hazel Scott's twinkling fingers do their bit, very musically, and the Ross sisters give forth with some really impossible (not meant in the derogatory sense) acrobatics. Dean Murphy should also be mentioned for his impersonations; you have to hear him to believe it.

And, of course, Winninger and Murphy are up to standard.—C. D.

'Underground' Film Shown at Capitol

"Tonight We Raid Calais," an ordinary program picture which depicts the role the French underground is playing in the European conflict, bowed in on the screen of the Capitol theater yesterday.

Surrounded by a galaxy of swell musicals and comedies, this moderate action picture has little opportunity for recognition. Annabella and John Sutton suffice in the romantic leads. (P. J.).

Beauty, Superb Music In 'Cover Girl'

One of the most dazzlingly beautiful and well-rounded musicals to come out of Hollywood has been titled "Cover Girl." It made its Atlanta debut yesterday at the Rialto. Superb music, a la Jerome Kern, a good solid story and a bevy of breath-taking gorgeous girls, whose faces have brightened the fronts of the best magazines, are the features of this technicolor triumph.

Rita Hayworth takes the feminine lead and does a great deal for the picture, which will do just as much for her in the way of enhancing her subsequent popularity. She and her rusty red hair are more ravishingly stunning than ever before.

She gets able support from Comedian Phil Silvers and Gene Kelly.

"Cover Girl" is one of the MUSTS of the season.

CHARLIE ROBERTS.

WHEN IN BURMA—do as the Burmese, would seem to be the philosophy of Major Graham Batchelor (right), of Milledgeville, Ga., who spurned use of available silverware to use chopsticks while eating with Chinese officers of the American-trained Chinese division in Burma. There is as yet no report on the condition of the major's vest.

Georgia's Loss Of Non-Whites Leads Nation

Georgia led the nation in non-white population net loss in the prewar period of 1935-1940, according to an Associated Press report from the Census Bureau in Washington.

The report stated that Georgia's non-white population showed a net decrease of 30,801, while the non-white net population of New York increased by 25,435.

California gained the largest net migration of white population with 644,813. In contrast Oklahoma had the largest net loss of whites—a reduction of 176,185.

Rugged Jean Gabin Makes 'The Impostor'

The acting genius of rugged Jean Gabin, the French screen idol, makes "The Impostor," current attraction at the Paramount, a splendidly convincing and entertaining drama which approaches the current war from a different perspective.

Gabin plays the part of a murderer who misses being guillotined when a prison is bombed and he escapes. He takes the uniform and papers of a dead soldier whose identity he assumes, and becomes a war hero as the result of his fighting with the Free French in Africa, though his deception is ultimately uncovered. His performance is most brilliant and dominates the photoplay throughout, although able assistance is rendered by the expert trouping of Richard Whorf, Allyn Joslyn and Peter Van Eyck.

Unit Purchased For Girls' Home

Rosslyn Apartment, at Ponce de Leon avenue and Durant place, N. E., was purchased recently from the Yancey Investment Company for $53,700 to become a ninth unit of the Churches Homes for Girls.

The apartments, which will house 140 women, will be renamed the Edgar Craighead Home, in honor of the Atlanta attorney, who is head of the finance committee for the organization. They will be occupied by the girls in September.

According to John A. Manget, president of Churches Homes, Inc., the new unit will permit the organization to care for 600 girls. At present, he added, the other eight units are filled to capacity and, in some cases, overcrowded.

Two house mothers will be in charge of the new unit. All girls now living in the units are employed, but when girls are jobless they are cared for by the organization.

Marietta Air Officers 100 Per Cent in Drive

One hundred per cent support of the Red Cross 1944 war fund drive was the record attained by the commissioned officers stationed at Marietta Army Air Field.

According to a report by Captain George P. Griffis, executive chairman of the drive, total subscriptions for the air field amounted to $924, which included contributions of the enlisted men and civilian personnel. All subscriptions by the enlisted men were completely voluntary since Army policy does not allow formal solicitation of enlisted men.

LIONS TO MEET TODAY

"Pardon and Parole in Georgia" will be the subject of Edward B. Everett's address to the Atlanta Lions Club at 12:15 p. m. today at the Ansley hotel. Everett is chairman of the Georgia State Board of Pardons and Parole.

AUNT HET

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

"Some criticism seems fair and decent, but I look for poison when anybody says she don't like to criticize, but."

Carroll Glenn Spells Her Name List—Not Liszt

Carroll Glenn, the brilliant southern violinist whose concert here Tuesday climaxed the 25th convention of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, wants it to go on record that she's just 23 years old and that her married name is spelled L-I-S-T.

The South Carolina virtuoso was married last August to Sergeant Eugene List, the celebrated pianist, who was a fellow-student of hers at Julliard School of Music in New York city. But one of the ladies at the convention was confused when Miss Glenn was introduced as Mrs. List.

"My dear, I didn't know you were the wife of the GREAT Liszt," the lady told Miss Glenn. "You look so young!" she added, mentally thumbing through her musical dictionary to recall Franz Liszt's dates.

Franz Liszt died in 1886.

Baptists To Aid Mercer Fund

In the interest of the Mercer University endowment fund campaign to raise $1,000,000, which opens Monday, 2,491 Baptist churches affiliated with the Georgia Baptist Convention are launching local campaigns in their churches.

Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, president of the Mercer Alumni Association, has issued a note to all alumni urging that every effort be made "to secure the $1,000,000 for the endowment of 10 distinguished professorships at Mercer University."

According to campaign headquarters, suggested quotas for local churches equal their gift to the Georgia Baptist convention cooperative program for 1942, including designated gifts. Already, 549 churches have reported their local campaign chairmen to headquarters, and others are actively engaged in the campaign.

Output of Arms Must Increase

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—The monthly output of munitions must be increased by 10 per cent to reach production goals scheduled for this year, Vice Chairman Joseph D. Keenan, of the War Production Board declared today.

"Our production records have been good, but we can't sit back now and think that we have already won the war on the production front," Keenan said in a message to the convention of the Louisiana State Federation of Labor at Monroe, La.

Production currently is on schedule, he said, but goals will increase in the months ahead.

The WPB official emphasized that "our biggest battles are still ahead of us," adding that "Tokyo and Berlin are a long way from our most advanced troops."

"We will go forward under our union leaders as our soldiers go forward under their officers, determined to give everything we have to win this war for ourselves and for our children," he told the convention.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Allied Cassino Battlers Die Under Own Bombs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, April 6.—(AP)—Allied bombers accidentally killed Allied troops and failed to blast the Nazis out of Cassino in their great assault March 15, Lieutenant General Ira C. Eaker conceded today, but the Texas-born commander of Allied Mediterranean air forces sharply insisted the operation "accomplished all that was expected of it by the air force commanders."

An unstated number of Allied troops were killed at Venafro, 12 miles east of Cassino, when Allied bombardiers mistook that town for the target, Eaker said, and other bombs fell wide of their mark near Cassino when they accidentally became dislodged from their racks. He did not say whether the latter caused any deaths among Allied troops.

Indicating his belief that the outcome at Cassino should not be construed as a black eye for aerial bombardment, Eaker said it was not to be expected that such an attack could wipe out all resistance.

"Over a long and more sustained period a greater degree of devastation could have been caused in Cassino," he said, "but it probably would have had little bearing on the final result. The enemy forces in their cellars, deep dugouts and underground passages would not have been affected."

The Cassino result, he asserted, only confirmed earlier lessons that heavy four-engined bombers would be better employed in attacking long-range strategic targets, such as the present campaign against the Balkans, than in close tactical support of ground forces, except in certain emergencies "such as at Salerno."

The Air Force commander, who discussed various aspects of the Cassino operation freely at a press conference, emphasized that his remarks should not be construed as a criticism of the ground forces or their commanders.

He pointed out, however, that there are some types of operations for which the Air Forces are not designed and to which they cannot be adapted.

"Under those conditions I want them to do whatever they can in support of the general battle, or to save the situation even though they may not be highly efficient in carrying out the task," Eaker said.

Half or whole baked ham is suggested for Easter dinner.

Ham Is Excellent Selection For Your Easter Dinner

By Sally Saver.

It is something of a problem to make a holiday, even one so glad as Easter. We may still be happy and grateful for all that Easter means, the radiance of springtime, the reassurance of man's immortality. But there is almost no heart or home but feels the heavy tragedy of war upon it. Many already have experienced grief, many more feel a terrible anxiety about loved ones and the immediate future.

But as the very wise Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick points out, we must not spend our time thinking about these things—we must do something—and the most effective action is to do something for somebody. So, once again, let me suggest that if your own son or loved one is far away and can't be home for Easter Day, invite some soldier, sailor or Marine to share whatever you have with him. If you do not know any, write, or phone your request for guests with any service organization in your town. USO, Service Men's Center or such.

This Easter will be different in many ways. It will not be the grand parade of fine feathers and fripperies of other years. It will, or should be, a patriotic Easter. We will wear what we have, cook what we can get and do it all remembering these are the things we can do at home to get our boys back sooner.

There are no foods that are specially Easter in the sense that they go with Thanksgiving and Christmas pudding or fruit cake with Christmas. Although, baked ham or roast leg of lamb have come to be the most acceptable meats for Easter dinner. Lamb promises to be somewhat short, but I am sure there will be plenty of ham to go around. Since this is a pork products reduced sale, half or whole hams are only 3 points a pound. Here are baked Easter menus on hams:

TO BAKE A HAM

Follow directions on wrapper if there are any. If no directions come with the ham, place it in an open roasting pan, flat side up, in a 300-degree oven. Do not cover. Do not add water. Cooking time: Half ham weighing 6-8 lbs., 30 minutes per lb.; whole ham weighing 8-10 lbs., 30 minutes per lb.; whole ham weighing 10-14 lbs., 25 minutes per lb.

TO ROAST LEG OF LAMB

Wipe with damp cloth. With a small sharp knife make several incisions and enclose a cut clove of garlic in the gashes. Insert small onions.

Roast as the ham, uncovered in 350-degree oven, no water added. Allow 35 minutes per lb. for cooking.

1 Tablespoon gelatin
1-4 Cup cold water
1 Teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 Baked pastry shell
Whipped cream

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; add 1-2 cup of sugar, lemon juice and salt. Cook in a double boiler until the consistency of custard. Pinch cayenne
1 Teaspoon salt
1 Tablespoon anchovy paste
Lettuce or cress
Garnish of radishes and small onions

Remove the shells from the cold, hard-cooked eggs and cut a large piece from the top of each, take out the yolks and mix them to form a paste with butter, cream, mustard, cayenne, salt and anchovy paste. Put this mixture back into the hollows and lay the eggs on a dish of lettuce or cress. Garnish with radishes and small onions.

Ideas From Cook's Notebook

Minced Veal: Chop leftover cooked veal and measure 4 cups after chopping. Heat 2 cups left over gravy or gravy mixed with water to make the required amount (thickening if it is necessary with 1 to 2 teaspoons corn starch mixed with a little cold water). Stir the meat into the hot gravy, add 1-2 teaspoon dried mustard, 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce, 1-4 cup sherry (may be omitted) and salt and pepper to season. Stir until very hot and serve in a baked noodle ring or in bread patty cases for serving.

Steamed Carrot Pudding: Mix and sift 2-3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3-4 teaspoon baking soda, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon each cloves and grated nutmeg. Stir in 1 cup seedless raisins until the fruit is well coated with flour. Then add 2-3 cup grated raw carrots and 2-3 cup grated raw potatoes, 1-2 cup dark molasses and 1-4 cup milk. Mix well, pour into a greased one-quart pudding mold or into the top of a one-quart double boiler, greased. Cook over boiling water for 2 1-2 hours. Turn out on a platter, cut down in slices and serve warm with lemon or other sauce.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—I look back on my visit to the Canal Zone as the time when Miss Thompson and myself were most steadily on the go. We had our headquarters at the home of Governor and Mrs. Glen Edgerton, but I think we must have been most unsatisfactory guests. We left the house so early each morning that our hosts did not say "good morning" to us until the afternoon, and when we came in at night we were so weary that we would say "good night" and go to bed at once.

On our first morning, we went by plane to the Atlantic side of the Isthmus, where we visited Army and Navy hospitals, took an interesting flight to see various military activities, and lunched with a group of men who were going through a course in jungle warfare. Then we flew back to the Pacific side and went to the Canal Zone. This is for Canal Zone civilian workers and their families, but it also has quite a large number of military patients. We supped with some of the soldiers.

In the evening, we drove out to a jungle base for a USO dance. Officers escort groups of girls out to the dances at these posts in the jungle, and the men take a great deal of trouble in their preparations for the dances. That evening, the room was decorated with palms and a good military orchestra was playing.

We then drove back to town to attend a concert at the Teatro Nacional for the benefit of the Navy Relief Society. The solo artist was a sailor from Panama named Samuel Matlowsky. He's really an artist and plays so well that I hope nothing happens to him in the Navy to prevent him from going on with his profession.

While in the Canal Zone, I saw a pamphlet describing the program of orientation classes for the Panama mobile force, and was impressed by it. Officially, the object is to give the soldiers an insight into the causes of war, the problems of peace, and so on. Unofficially, the classes are free for all discussions of all kinds of topics.

Officers who started the program with crossed fingers have found that these round table discussions, with all soldiers taking part on an equal footing, have aroused keen interest. The best criterion of the success of the program is that the classes often run through chow time. If a soldier would rather talk than eat, they must uses round tables!

We are missing a chance to have the men informed on the problems they will face when they return. If they were given an opportunity to think about these problems and to discuss them in their classes, it would be forming a habit which would give us better citizens in the future.

Exercise Will Improve Chest Muscles

By Ida Jean Kain.

With brassieres going the way of girdles, there are many of you who want to know if exercise will reduce or develop the bust and if it will overcome a sagging line. Since this tissue is glandular it cannot be reduced with exercise. But the tissue is so markedly affected by fat that the size of the bust can be changed by normalizing the weight.

Nevertheless, exercise has a highly important role in improving this measurement because a sagging line is almost invariably due to the lack of muscle tone. Although the breasts are glands, they are supported by the pectoral muscles which lie underneath the skin of the chest and fan out along each side of the breastbone and up to the shoulders. The ends of the fan converge at the upper arms.

Exercise tones the muscles and improves a flat chest and lifts a sagging contour. Fat does not grow with exercise, so the overweight need have no fear that exercise will cause the bust to become larger. With a heavy bust, however, an uplift bra should be worn while exercising to avoid any strain.

To know which exercises are effective, you have to know how these pectoral muscles work. The upper part of this fan-shaped muscle is used when the arms are swung forward; the lower part in a down-swing. So the exercise patterned after the backstroke in swimming uses the entire muscle. Swing alternate arms forward, upward, back, down and around in wide circles, moving the arms at the shoulders. Swing for 12 counts, later increase to 25. Of course, really swimming would be even more helpful because of the added resistance offered by the water—the muscle is forced to work harder.

The following exercise also brings both parts of the muscle into vigorous action: Hold the arms in front of the chest, slightly below chest level, with elbows bent and with one fist in the palm of the other hand. Resisting with the muscles in one arm, push with the other, until the elbow is out at the side in a straight line with that shoulder. Then reverse the action and repeat six counts.

The Swedish cross-to-fly is a very good exercise for this part of the figure since it moves the arm sharply inward and that brings the muscle into even more vigorous action. From a standing position, feet parallel and apart, arms crossed at wrists in front of the body, go up on your toes as you fling your arms up and out to sides, then circle inward and out again. Swing free and easy for about 12 counts. Then flop forward and shrug your shoulders to get rid of any tension.

The "Bust Normalizing Exercises" are in order for both the overweight and the flat-chested girl. Send large stamped return envelope for the set, with three cents in coin or stamps to cover cost of handling.

Hard-cooked egg and ripe olive sandwiches on whole wheat bread combine good tasting foods and those with excellent food values. Highly nutritious foods by no means need taste unappetizing.

THE WORRY CLINIC

Teach Child Early in Life To Respect His Parents

By Dr George W Crane.

(It is good psychology to employ whatever methods will get results. When logical arguments or love will not cause a child to behave, you are justified in trying other measures which will. If more mothers were taught how to play poker, they wouldn't let themselves be bluffed so easily but would call their children for a showdown.)

Case C-211: Clara Y., aged 16, is a Chicago high school girl.

"What'll I do, what'll I do?" her mother wailed a few minutes ago. "I've tried to rear her to be a good girl, but she has been cursing me whenever she doesn't get her own way. I think maybe she has learned to do this from her father, for he has called me names almost from our wedding day.

"Clara has become boy crazy and has been going to movies every night and twice on Sunday. She demands money or threatens that she'll run away from home with a boy she has met recently.

"He is no good, I've heard, and I don't want her to do anything rash, so I always give her the money.

"But last night she raged because I suggested she stay home and go to a show with me. Then she ran out and didn't come home all night. Will the police send her to a girls' detention home if they find her with this boy?"

DIAGNOSIS

It might be well if mothers were taught how to play poker. They could then out-bluff some of the threats or demands of headstrong children.

What would you readers say about Clara? Would you advise this mother to meekly accept the curses and insults hurled at her by Clara, hoping that maybe Clara might become ashamed of herself ultimately.

Clara's father didn't approve of this course of action, and was going to beat some sense into the girl's head, but his wife came between them, and had two teeth knocked out by a blow the father had directed at the daughter.

The thanks which the mother got was a cursing by the daughter on many subsequent occasions.

The proper time to instill respect for parents in the mind of a child is before the latter even reaches kindergarten age.

A tactful parent who enlists the child's co-operation and who does not allow herself to be coerced by the youngster's occasional temper tantrums, can usually mold the latter's character and habits in approved fashion.

AS THE TWIG IS BENT

Clara was over-indulged by her mother during the girl's childhood. She was not taught to help around the house because she was slow and careless, so the mother did the housework to save time.

The daughter was given an allowance and "spoiled." It is true, she heard her father curse her mother, but so have thousands of other children who didn't turn out like Clara.

If a child has reached high school age in a "spoiled" condition, and if gentle measures no longer are effective, it is good psychology to experiment with other forms of restraint which will get results.

A policeman is entitled to club a recalcitrant culprit who will not behave himself. A soldier shoots to kill when on guard and approached by even his own buddy who fails to give the password or who refuses to halt when so commanded.

Corporal punishment is still resorted to for naughty adults. Do you suppose Clara would have behaved better if her father had struck her instead of her mother?

Health Quiz

Whole Wheat

I maintain whole wheat bread is more nutritious than white bread. My friends insist that persons with high blood pressure and stout persons are advised to use whole wheat bread to bring down blood pressure and reduce weight. They say white bread is better if one wants to put on weight. (T. J.)

Answer—Practically no difference between whole wheat and white bread, so far as nutritive or caloric values are concerned. Neither will bring down or increase blood pressure or weight more than other food of equal nutritive or caloric value. Whole wheat is always preferable to refined white bread because it contains more of the natural vitamin and mineral content of wheat. Send stamped envelope bearing your address for

Installment XXIX

Jack Barrymore, today, "goes over Niagara Falls in a barrel" and then assays his final stage role.

Under the watchful eye of "Guard" Kelley, Jack Barrymore stayed sufficiently under control to make some movie and radio appearances. Then, in November, 1936, he decided to elope with Miss Barrie.

Jack's friends, Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, the writers, sought to dissuade him. Jack leaned against a mantelpiece, listening to their impassioned arguments. He said, "Gentlemen, you are talking to a man who is about to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel!"

The next day they flew to Yuma and were married. But the match lasted little more than a month, ending in a New Year's dispute in a night club. Mrs. Elaine Barrymore sued for divorce in February, 1937.

Reconciliations and new quarrels followed each other with bewildering rapidity. Jack and his fourth wife toured in "My Dear Children," a flimsy play which had an amazing success due to Jack's weird antics and crackling ad libs.

Critic Ashton Stevens said that the last Loop performance of "My Dear Children" was the saddest of the Chicago engagement. Jack was to go to Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, then return to Broadway after an absence of more than 15 years.

In speaking of the Chicago farewell, Ashton recalled that Jack said, "You can't drown yourself in drink. I've tried; you float."

"He had been worrying about New York first-nighters," Ashton continued, "especially the Broadway critics. Most of them, other than Burns Mantle, had been in knee-pants when their predecessors acclaimed his 'Hamlet.' To these brilliant young gentlemen, John Barrymore would be a stranger—or worse, a picture-actor, and a decayed one at that.

"Anyhow, Jack fortified himself beyond his limited capacity for the parting. The simple, honest, friendly, grateful speech he had intended had fled his memory by the time he was to speak.

"I, who was to have spent the balance of the night with him, was not the only one who left the house before the stage manager persuaded him to let the curtain fall. I couldn't stay. I had grown more or less hardened to the caricatures he visited on himself—but this wasn't Jack Barrymore at all: it was the complete oblitération of Dr. Jekyll by Mr. Hyde. I went into the street, with great, gawky, sentimental tears salting my face."

Barrymore returned to Broadway late in January of 1940. The play was to open at the Belasco theater the last night of that month.

It was understood that Ethel Barrymore would stay with Jack at Bayside, Long Island, in a place remote from the "gang," then his friend, Jack Prescott, would arrive to "carry on" when the play opened on Broadway.

Ethel watched over Jack until the time for his New York debut at the Belasco theater. Prescott sat in Jack's dressing room during the first night, to protect him between acts, and then, after the play, to surrender him to Diana.

The play itself was a disappointment to the New York audience. One of the first-nighters, Spencer Merriam Berger, of New Haven, a long-time admirer of Barrymore, said of it:

A profusion of the great and the near-great turned out for the premiere, a few a bit wistful about spilt milk and such, but most of them ready for anything that came. I'm certain that the majority expected the curtain to rise on Jack removing his trousers while tossing off Oscar Wilde epigrams.

What followed was an unbelievably baleful performance. Some where Barrymore had got the notion that his return to New York called for decorum with a capital D. The dazed audience snickered perfunctorily for a time, soon gave up, and I think that some began to wonder if it were too late for a refund.

The final curtain brought the first spontaneous reaction of the evening. Relieved that the show was over, yet anxious to demonstrate their affection for Jack—however strained that affection might be at the moment—the audience gave him a thunderous ovation, to which he responded with bows and tears.

Now, I thought, when this quiets down he'll cut loose with a speech that will make amends. But the moment he opened his mouth, onto the stage there popped one Bert Freeman, "an unemployed actor," clad in what might have been a Kresge conception of a Hamlet costume. This fellow in green tights proclaimed himself to be Hamlet's ghost.

"I've always wanted to play Hamlet with you, Mr. Barrymore," said the interloper.

Jack, startled, but ever the master, put his arm around the man and agreed that it was an enchanting idea, but suggested it be postponed until the following evening. Many in the audiece had meanwhile assumed that this was a planned epilogue, which would prove as unfortunate as the play, and went out.

The curtain cracked down. Freeman got the hook, and a minute later Jack told a half-empty house that this was "the happiest evening of my life." Brother, that was acting!

After the play closed, there were fresh marital fireworks. Jack went west and spent weeks in a desert hideout trying to regain his health. An interlocutory decree of divorce had been entered between the actor and Elaine but on August 9, 1937, Jack received a telegram.

Miss Barrie was arriving at the Glendale railway station from the east. Would he meet her? Jack did meet her, with flowers. A few days later, the interlocutory decree of divorce was dismissed.

The marriage and Jack's once-brilliant career tottered along for several more years. In November of 1941, Jack was again in the hospital in Los Angeles. He received a bouquet and a note from Miss Elaine Barrie.

It is Miss Barrie's recollection that Jack telephoned and urged that they be reunited and once more prevent the divorce from becoming final. She refused to go back to him.

The actor, however, left the hospital with plans for a reunion. He announced a private dinner for two at his Beverly Hills home. He restored Elaine's picture to a silver frame and ordered flowers and wine. He dressed in formal attire, arranging the setting.

Miss Barrie did not appear. At midnight, Jack's patience vanished. He drank the wine, threw the flowers in the fireplace and tore the picture from the frame. Like King Lear, he declaimed on the Heath. . . .

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirologist.

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—A combination of influences operate until 6:17 p. m. making this a favorable day for artistic work, for beautifying the home, for general business endeavors. However, between 11:17 a. m. and 3:05 p. m. use care in written matter of all kinds.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—The morning hours and until 11:15 a. m. favor important plans—buying, selling, trading and matters connected with music and art. After 11:15 a. m. favors dealings with organizations and for working on affairs that have a systematic foundation.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Unless careful thought is given to your undertakings previous to 12:17 p. m. you will very likely meet with little co-operation in your plans for others. After 12:17 p. m. is an excellent time to start new enterprises that have been carefully thought out.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Watch your step today, as the aspects incline to high nervous tension, which may bring hasty and impulsive decisions. An excellent day to stick to routine. The best aspects of the day operate during the forenoon.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—The period between 12 noon and 6:45 p. m. does not especially favor singing contracts or entering into new agreements. After 6:45 p. m. appears to be the better part of the day for entering into agreements and signing papers.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—Personal affairs and interests of a wider scope may show a tendency toward strain, animosity, or you may be inclined to overdo. Therefore, the day does not especially favor new beginnings.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—The entire day will be an auspicious one to find support and attain favors. Plan to go after the things you desire in finances, professional and literary pursuits. An excellent day for making progress.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—Before 1:03 p. m. holds conservative influences, favoring affairs of a substantial nature. You may have opportunities to accomplish something towards your highest ideals. Good will and co-operation should be more easily attained.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—A number of influences predominate which will bring a steadiness into your life. Artistic ideas, drugs, liquids, mechanical pursuits are especially favored. A favorable day for work and ideas of a humanitarian nature.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—During the morning hours and until 4:58 p. m. is a favorable time for obtaining the confidence of people who are in power. After 4:58 the calmness of the morning seems displaced with a feeling of impatience. Good time to stick to routine.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Previous to noon favors dealings with those in advanced or superior positions. If you want to attain a material or business triumph, see what you can do about it this morning. During the remainder of the day more will be accomplished by acting with deliberation.

Mrs. English Robinson is pictured looking at the photograph of her brother, Idis Cater, made in Italy and brought her by Lieutenant Charles Fortune, U. S. Army Air Forces, of Augusta, shown at the right. Mrs. Robinson, the former Miss Ermine Cater, of Augusta, and Lieutenant Fortune have been friends since school days in Augusta, and the latter has been here this week visiting Captain and Mrs. Robinson on Howell Mill road. The Army flyer, who participated in the Sicilian, Italian and African invasions, wears the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf Clusters and, as a bombardier on a Flying Fortress, completed 26 missions over Italy with the same crew, and as a navigator of a C-27 completed 50 missions without the loss of a crew member. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Fortune, of Augusta, and before entering the service resided in Atlanta and was associated with Parks-Chambers, Inc.

Parties Planned For Mrs. Johnston

Several parties have been planned for next week in compliment to Mrs. Thomas Henry Johnston, of Cambridge, N. Y., who is the guest of Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale on Muscogee avenue. She is en route to her home in the east from St. Louis, Mo., where she visited her son, Captain Edwin Johnston, and also from Mobile, Ala., where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright.

Mrs. Jack Pappenheimer will be hostess on Tuesday at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club for Mrs. Johnston. Covers will be placed for Mesdames Massengale, John M. Slaton, Oscar Pappenheimer, Theodore S. Will, Charles C. Case, Edward Worcester, Malcolm Henderson, Julian Clarke, Charles Loridans, Ernest Felber, Miss Martha Slaton and the hostess.

On Monday at the tea hour, Mrs. N. B. Dolinoff de Wells entertains a small group at her home on Biltmore block, and on Tuesday afternoon Mrs. George Bland will entertain a small group of guests at tea at her apartment in the Biltmore. Wednesday, Mrs. Charles Shepard will entertain at luncheon at her home on Habersham road for Mrs. Johnston.

Mrs. Marshall To Be Installed

Mrs. T. C. Marshall will be installed as president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association at the meeting to be held Monday at noon with Mrs. H. W. Cheney at 784 Adair avenue, N. E. Each member is asked to bring lunch for one person, which will be exchanged with another member.

Other officers to be installed are Mrs. J. L. Vaught, first vice president; Mrs. R. H. Shumway, second vice president; Mrs. L. D. Morse, treasurer; Mrs. W. G. Freeman, recording secretary, and Mrs. R. E. Guillebeau, corresponding secretary.

EASTER SYMBOLIZES NEW LIFE—NEW HOPE

Easter! The increasing warmth of the sun in April . . . the unfolding of buds and the bold, brave blossoming of flowers . . . the radiant awakening of the earth after a cold winter's sleep . . . these symbolize to man new life, new hope. Let us keep up the spirit of Eastertime this year, for now, if ever, man's hope for a better new world is mounting wherever men are fighting for what is right.

Baked Ham—for a traditional Easter

It's fortunate that Wilson's hams require no more points than ordinary hams. Wilson & Co. makes two fine hams.

Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham, long famous as "the ham you cut with a fork," is ready-to-serve cold, just as it comes from the market. Or heat it, if you prefer.

Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham, the original tender extra mild ham, must be thoroughly cooked at home.

GLAZING AND DECORATING

To cook, follow directions that come with each ham. One-half hour before done, remove ham from oven, score fat, sprinkle with brown sugar, dot with cloves and baste sparingly with ¼ cup fruit juice mixed with ¼ cup corn syrup. Decorate if desired (except for leaves and stems) and return to oven to finish baking. Decoration above is easily made. Use wedges cut from slices of pineapple (candied or canned), slices of maraschino cherry; cut leaves and stems from green pepper. Garnishing tip: deviled Clear Brook Eggs in nests of endive.

Small Family, Few "Points"?

The point value on ham is extremely low now, so there is no need to miss out on the goodness of a Wilson's Certified Ham this Easter. If you can't get a whole ham, settle for a half ham or a ham steak and rejoice!

Rub ½ cup light brown sugar into a 2-lb. slice of Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham, sprinkle with 10 whole cloves, place in a baking pan, add ½ cup water and bake until fully cooked, about one hour. Serves 4 to 6.

If you select a slice of Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham (ready-to-serve), simply heat through.

For a Gala Dinner

Boiled new potatoes, buttered and parsleyed, are "tops" with ham; follow through with asparagus, a tossed spring salad and delectable hot rolls. For dessert, serve individual cakes with a depression cut out of center top (for nest effect). Frost with white icing and cover top, including depression, with coconut tinted green. Fill "nest" with jelly bean candies and the children will be delighted.

EASTER BREAKFAST

Start Easter morning with the song of Wilson's Certified Bacon a-sizzling in the pan! It will bring the whole family to the table in a jiffy. Easter bunnies and eggs are inseparable so plan to have plenty of Clear Brook Eggs on hand for filling "short-orders" at each meal on Easter. It's an old custom—one we enjoy greatly.

Sincerely yours, George Rector

Argentine Quintuplets Reported 'Authentic'

BUENOS AIRES, April 6.—(AP) The Dionnes appeared today to have an authentic set of rivals for quintuplets honors.

Dr. Jose Alejandro Beruti informed the Argentine medical association that after a careful investigation he saw no reason to doubt that Senora Franco Diligenti, of Buenos Aires, bore quintuplets last July 15—two boys and three girls.

Dr. Beruti, head of the obstetrical department of the University of Buenos Aires school of medicine and first recognized medical authority to report on the case, said that skepticism which greeted first newspaper announcement of the births apparently was unwarranted by the data he had uncovered.

The skepticism arose when no trace of quintuplets could be found in official birth records. The parents explained then that they had tried to keep the event secret because of the fear of publicity.

Dr. Beruti declared that examination showed all the Diligenti children were now in perfect health although, he said, the last to be born, a girl, had required artificial respiration, warm baths, and stimulants.

The doctor said according to his inquiry Senora Diligenti was attended only by a midwife in whose home the births occurred. He said the first child was born at 9 a. m., the second 10 minutes later, the third 15 minutes after the second, the fourth at 10:05 and the last at 11 a. m.

The total weight of the infants at birth, Dr. Beruti said, was 6,400 grams (approximately 14 pounds) while at eight months the total had increased to 41,000 grams (nearly 90 pounds). The doctor expressed the belief the infants were born prematurely.

His inquiry, he said, showed a number of multiple births in the mother's family, an aunt having borne triplets and twins, a sister twins, and a sister-in-law two sets of twins.

Beruti told his colleagues that "the legal, moral or intimate aspects of the case were omitted from the report because they are extraneous to the subject from a medical standpoint."

Eleanor Vetoes Self as Delegate To Peace Parley

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Roosevelt thinks American women delegates should be sent to postwar conferences on peace problems, but considers herself "not qualified" for such an assignment.

"Nothing under the sun would make me take a public job," she told her press conference.

Besides, she said, "I'll be 60 on my next birthday," and she added that she had not held any responsible positions.

The President's wife mentioned Mrs. Anne O'Hare McCormick, author and newspaperwoman, as an example of a woman with an international viewpoint, backed by a knowledge of different countries and people and what motivates them, plus an experience of responsibility on a public scale—all attributes which she said would be desirable in a peace conferee.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she would be glad to contribute what knowledge she had that would be useful to the delegates chosen.

Realty Groups To Hear Talks

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.
Real Estate Editor.

Three of the leading officials connected with the National Association of Real Estate Boards will be speakers at an all-day session of licensed real estate brokers and salesmen today at the Ansley hotel, coming here under the sponsorship of the Georgia Real Estate Commission.

The officials are Charles F. Curry, of Kansas City, president Institute of Real Estate Management; Burrows Johnson, of New Orleans, president Appraisal Institute, and Joseph Laronge, Cleveland, president Brokers' Institute. The delegation has been making a tour of the south, addressing realty brokers and salesmen in various cities, discussing real estate problems of the day.

The sessions open at 11:30 a. m. The Georgia Commission, composed of John O. Chiles, chairman; T. A. Waters, and Josiah Flournoy, will be in charge of the meeting.

The Atlanta Real Estate Board, Henry Robinson president, will compliment the visiting speakers and the commission by holding its regular semi-monthly luncheon at 1 p. m. at the Ansley, at which time the guest speaker will be Captain D. G. Payzant, officer in charge, Marine Corps Detachment, Georgia School of Technology.

After this luncheon, and for the rest of the afternoon, there will be a general discussion of realty problems. Some 30 to 40 out-of-town real estate men are expected to attend, in addition to a large delegation of members of the Atlanta board, and many property owners.

Snow Melting, New York Dons Gay Easter Dress

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—With unseasonable snow melting fast under a warm sun, New York City began today to don its gay Easter dress.

Seasonal pastels blossomed in store windows. Schools resounded with shouts of children starting spring vacations, and railroads and bus terminals showed signs of the usual exodus of New Yorkers bound for holiday visits.

One of the city's most beautiful Easter spectacles will appear tomorrow when 1,000 pure white Easter lily plants will be set out in peat filled fountain beds around the plaza of Rockefeller Center.

Balmy skies were forecast.

UNRRA Ready To Move To Balkans — Lehman

CAIRO, April 6.—(AP)—Plans are completed for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to move into the Balkans with the Allied military forces, Herbert H. Lehman, head of the UNRRA, said today.

The purpose of his visit to Cairo, Lehman said, was to arrange for the UNRRA to absorb the Middle East Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and to discuss with military authorities plans for civilian relief in liberated Balkan countries.

"Excellent progress has been made in both spheres," he added, "and pending approval of the Toe British government the MERRA will be absorbed about May 1."

Easter Orders Jam PX In Italy; WACs to Rescue

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Italy, April 6.—(AP)—The WACs have come to the rescue of the post exchange six weeks behind on the flood of orders from American soldiers for flowers to be delivered to mothers and best girls back home on Easter morning.

On learning the exchange had been forced to turn down late orders, Lieutenant Consuelor Doggett, of Goldsboro, N. C., brought in 24 WAC spare-time typists who turned out 19,000 orders in one week before they broke the bottleneck.

Constitution Hearing Slated

Proposed revisions of Georgia's 67-year-old constitution will be brought before the public for suggestions and criticism next week.

The commission redrafting the constitution will open a week-long public hearing Monday in the state supreme court chambers, Pat McCutchen Jr., assistant secretary, announced yesterday.

Seven subcommittees have completed their reports and will submit them during the meeting. Any group or individual may submit written suggestions during the hearing.

Among the organizations planning to appear are the Georgia Municipal Association, Association Georgia County Commissioners, the Georgia League of Women Voters, and the Georgia Retail Gasoline Dealers' Association.

Adopted in 1877, the constitution has been amended 268 times. The revision commission was authorized by the 1943 legislature, and has been busy since November drafting revisions. Governor Arnall is chairman of the group.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in The Constitution Want Ads.

Cold Weather Destroys Albany's Easter Lilies

ALBANY, Ga., April 6.—(AP)—Two Albany men, who would divert the $10,000,000 prewar Easter lily market from the Japanese must wait another year to achieve fuller success with their bulbs.

Dougherty County Police Chief Robert L. Troy, whose efforts have been joined by Dr. H. D. Wilson, of Albany, said today cold weather and excessive rains had combined to blot out blooms on his lilies at his Putney bulb farm.

Now, said Chief Troy, the blooms won't show until a month after Easter Sunday. They were on time last year, however.

Quadrennial Conference To Name New Bishop for Southeast Area

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

At least one new Methodist bishop for the southeastern jurisdiction will be elected by the jurisdictional quadrennial conference to be held here in June, according to information furnished by Bishop Arthur J. Moore yesterday.

Bishop U. V. W. Darlington, of the Louisville area, is to retire at this session of the conference under the age-limit law of the church. In addition to the retirement of Bishop Darlington it is understood that Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, of Birmingham, will retire on account of health.

Methodist church law stipulates the number of bishops for each episcopal area, based on the number of church members in that area. Bishop Moore pointed out that this jurisdiction now has an excess of one bishop, due to a special arrangement to provide for episcopal supervision for European mission fields. Unless that special arrangement is continued for another quadrennium, only one new bishop will be elected, as only eight bishops are allowed for this episcopal area, stated Bishop Moore.

The nine bishops expected to attend the jurisdictional conference here in June are as follows: Bishop Darlington; Bishop Moore, of the Atlanta area; Bishop Paul B. Kern, of the Nashville area; Bishop W. W. Peele, of the Richmond area; Bishop C. W. Purcell, of the Charlotte area; Bishop J. L. Decell, of the Birmingham area; Bishop W. T. Watkins, of the Columbia area; Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Richmond, and Bishop H. M. Dobbs.

Increasing interest in selection of a new bishop is observed among church people who are members of the jurisdictional conference. Favorite sons are being presented from each state in the southeastern area. Consecration services for the new bishop will probably be held Monday night, June 26.

The jurisdictional conference for this year will assemble at Wesley Memorial church Thursday, June 22. Daytime sittings will be devoted entirely to business affairs, with special mass meetings to be held each night. The first night session will be devoted to a great missionary mass meeting, when Bishop W. Y. Chen, episcopal head of the Chungking area and head of the Chinese National Christian Council, and Mrs. J. D. Bragg, of St. Louis, president of the Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service, will be featured speakers. Attending that mass meeting, honor guests will be returned foreign and home missionaries and deaconnesses.

GOVERNORS TO TALK

Three southern governors will speak on Friday night as feature speakers. Governor Arnall, of Georgia, will deliver the address of welcome and introduce Governor Thomas L. Bailey, of Mississippi, and Governor Spessard L. Holland, of Florida. The visiting governors will present special studies of the theme "Matters of Strength in National Life." A banquet in honor of the visiting governors, their wives, distinguished laymen and their wives will be given Friday.

Saturday night's session will be devoted to youth and Christian education, with the Rev. George Wesley Jones, a Duke University student, and Dr. John J. Tigert Jr., president of the University of Florida, as speakers.

On Sunday, June 25, visiting ministers will be heard in many of the Atlanta church pulpits at the morning worship services. Great mass meetings are scheduled for the afternoon and night services at the city auditorium, when Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Christ's Methodist church, New York, will be heard in two sermons. Monday night's session will be a consecration service for newly elected bishops. Final adjournment will probably come Tuesday, it was stated.

600 DELEGATES EXPECTED

Within the bounds of the southeastern jurisdiction are 3,000,000 Methodists whose chosen delegates will come here numbering more than 600. Additional visitors are expected from distant states, while all sections of Georgia will be represented by many hundreds coming to the city each day.

Specific work to be done by the jurisdictional conference will pertain to adoption of a program embodying such legislation as may be adopted by the Kansas City general conference in May and integrating the program with the general progress of church endeavor in this immediate section, which reaches from Washington south and east of the Mississippi river.

Farm Representatives Win 'C' Gasoline Rights

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Representatives of farmers' organizations today won the right to hold C gasoline ration cards as "preferred" drivers.

The Office of Price Administration said that the listing of the farm group representatives along with war plant employes and other essential workers is effective April 11, and applies only to full-time paid employes of organizations operating to increase food output.

The mileage granted will be the amount needed to carry out the following purposes, OPA said: Assisting farmers to increase food production; organizing or helping farm co-operatives in the marketing of produce or buying of necessary supplies, livestock or equipment; organizing or assisting in the co-operative use of farm livestock, machinery or equipment.

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings yesterday were $20,700,000, while on the same date last year they were $18,000,000.

HOTEL HEARING TODAY

A hearing before the DeKalb county superior court in which T. J. Woods, present manager of the Candler hotel, will ask the court to enjoin Walter Candler, owner, from turning the hotel over to L. L. Tucker, former manager of the Ansley hotel, will be heard today, attorneys for Woods announced. The case was originally scheduled for hearing yesterday.

Knox Expects Big Sub Attack

AT UNITED STATES NAVAL BASE, BERMUDA, April 6.—(AP) Secretary Knox said today a mass attack by German U-boats may come "soon" against Allied shipping.

The naval secretary spoke at a celebration of the third anniversary of the establishment of the naval base on this British island. He said that Germany now is concentrating upon building submarines "to the virtual exclusion of all other kinds of vessels," and added:

"We have been bombing their installations and factories but their submarine production has by no means been stopped and we have a good idea of the rate at which they are launching their U-boats. They will undoubtedly come out in mass soon."

Knox said it was "anybody's guess" whether the U-boats again will come into waters of the western Atlantic to wage warfare against merchant shipping. "But if they should you will be prepared for them."

The Navy secretary disclosed in his address that the Bermuda naval base, sometimes called "the Pearl Harbor of the Atlantic," cost "upwards of 34 million dollars," excluding work done here by the Navy's Seabees.

Moody To Argue Texas Primary Ruling Motion

HOUSTON, Texas, April 6.—(AP) Former Governor Dan Moody and Wright Morrow, representing the Texas Democratic executive committee, will ask the United States supreme court for a rehearing on its decision that Negroes can vote in Texas Democratic primaries, Committee Chairman George A. Butler said today.

Moody will go to Washington to argue the motion, Butler told a press conference.

He announced appointment of a committee of Texas lawyers to study the opinion and the Texas election laws and make recommendations to the committee on what course of action to pursue to regulate the membership of the Democratic party in Texas.

Butler asserted that the opinion was written to cover not only the primary election laws in Texas but to regulate party membership in all southern states.

STRATEGY IN THE KITCHEN

The exciting meals that make good cooks famous are not accidents. Thousands of Southern cooks insure their baking success by insisting on White Lily Flour, the fine all-purpose flour which is more economical to use because it requires less shortening. White Lily is enriched with Vitamin B-1 and essential food minerals—and you don't need to reach for your ration book when you ask your grocer for White Lily.

Captain Morton To Receive DFC Downtown Today

An impressive military ceremony will be held in the heart of Atlanta's downtown at 2 p. m. today when Captain William H. Morton, veteran of 50 bombing raids over Africa, Sicily and Italy, will receive the Distinguished Flying Cross.

The event will take place in Hurt Memorial Park, across the street from the headquarters of the Southeastern Procurement District of the AAF Materiel Command at 86 Edgewood avenue. The public is invited.

Captain Morton is a test pilot for the district at McDonnell Aircraft in Memphis, Tenn. He will fly here for the ceremony. Colonel R. W. Propst, head of the Southeastern Procurement District, will present the medal to Captain Morton. All officers of district headquarters will be present.

The medal is being awarded because of Captain Morton's courage and skill in leading a formation of 36 B-25 bombers in a successful raid over Messina, Sicily, July 14, 1943, in spite of intense and accurate antiaircraft fire.

Captain Morton received his wings as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces May 20, 1942. He took part in the North African and Italian campaigns from February to November, 1943. He has also received the Air Medal with eight Oak Leaf Clusters.

100 Television Stations Seen Early After War

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—James D. McLean, General Electric Company commercial engineer, said today his company foresees the establishment of 100 active television stations serving 67,000,000 persons within five years after the war.

McLean said 18 months after construction of equipment starts after the war there would be a minimum of 40 active stations (based on licenses granted or applied for last March 1) with a 30,000,000 audience.

A. A. Brandt, G. E. general sales manager, said "from present indications, it appears possible to produce television receivers postwar with excellent performance at prices around the $200 bracket, based on prewar levels."

Bread Consumption Cut To Six Oz. in Portugal

LISBON, April 6.—(AP)—A new bread ration announced today, reflecting a wheat shortage, curtailed consumption to six ounces daily of first-class bread or 9 1-2 ounces of second-class dark bread. The second class product is provided mainly for poor classes unable to buy other foodstuffs. Bread is the mainstay of all Portugal, which eats less meat per capita than any other European nation, even in peacetime.

Lieut. Everett Dies in Crash

Lieutenant Charles Henry Everett Jr., son of C. H. Everett Sr., of Atlanta, and the late Mrs. Bessie Moran Everett, was killed in an air crash Wednesday night at Peterson Field, Colorado Springs, his family has been notified. He was pilot of a bomber.

Lt. Everett.

Besides his father, Lieutenant Everett is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Tirey Everett, of Waco, Texas; a sister, Mrs. Ashton C. Bonnaffon, of Atlanta; three aunts, Misses Rose and Dorothy Moran, of Atlanta, and Mrs. John W. Higgins, of Tampa, Fla., and an uncle, Captain C. A. Moran, of Atlanta.

After his mother's death in 1921 Everett made his home with his grandmother, the late Mrs. Mollie Sheehan Moran, and his aunts, Misses Rose and Dorothy Moran.

A graduate of Marist College in 1934, an honor graduate of St. Louis College in 1938, and a graduate of Harvard Law school in 1941, Everett entered the Army immediately and was appointed to the judge advocate general's office in Atlanta. He was commissioned at Camp Edgewood Arsenal, in Maryland, in chemical warfare.

In January, 1943, he entered the Air Corps, receiving his wings at Tampa Field, Texas, the following October.

GE Fluorescent Patents Upheld in Federal Court

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Validity of the General Electric Company's patents on fluorescent and germicidal lamps was upheld in federal court here today.

Judge Vincent L. Leibell upheld the company's claims in a 154-page decision in which he ruled infringements on the patents had been committed by the Hygrade Sylvania Corporation of New York and the Raytheon Manufacturing Company of Newton, Mass.

The jurist refused to issue any restraining order against Hygrade Sylvania or Raytheon at this time because the federal government, in an anti-trust suit pending before a federal court in New Jersey, had charged General Electric used its patents to effect agreements with licensees in violation of the anti-trust laws.

It wouldn't seem like Easter without some CORNFIELD HAM

THIS EASTER—you may have to forego the pleasure of a whole CORNFIELD HAM—but you'll certainly want to serve ham for this gala meal, just as you have in other years. And the good news is that you can buy part CORNFIELD HAMS—or delicious thick slices for broiling or baking.

The quantity of these delicious hams (for civilian use) is limited. But the quality is "pre-war." They have that same fine tenderness, that same familiar fragrant hickory-smoke flavor that has made CORNFIELD HAM famous throughout the South.

In the box at the right, Jane Lee (our home economist) gives you her kitchen-tested recipes for broiling or baking slices of Cornfield Ham, or for baking a part-ham. Try them—you'll like them.

Hickory-Smoked by
WHITE PROVISION COMPANY

Baked Slices: Use one-inch to two-inch slices. Cover with honey or brown-sugar glaze. Add 1 cup milk, water or fruit-juice. Bake in slow oven (325°F) about 25 to 30 minutes per pound.

Baked Part Ham: Wipe ham and wrap loosely in piece of clean paper. Use no water; place fat side up in uncovered pan; bake 22 minutes per pound at 325°F. After baking as above, cover with glaze and return to hot oven for either 15 minutes, or until brown.

Broiled Ham Slices: One-inch slices of Cornfield Ham should be broiled or pan-broiled until well browned on both sides—about 10 or 15 minutes.

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Oh, Lee! Oh, Lady! Gosh, what a shock it was to pick up a copy of Zippo Newman's sports section, Birmingham News, and read—"Lady's team takes Baron practice tilt."

I hustled feverishly through the story to learn the lurid details.

And it was no little relief to learn that it was Lady's team, all right, but definitely not feminine.

Ben Lady is back catching for the Barons and he's piloting one of the intrasquad teams.

Worse may come to worst, but we can't have any ladies beating the Barons this season.

It was bad enough last year when it looked as if Mutt Riddle's outfit was heading for the championship of the first half.

But they were victims of the Southern League's "booby trap"—Sulphur Dell, Nashville—and never recovered from it.

Incidentally, the Barons have a couple of Ladys on the team this season. Ben brought his brother, Lee, to play right field, and he collected three hits to win the recent practice game.

Tribute To Alex It's just as we thought, on learning that Navy was setting a precedent by coming south next year to play Georgia Tech at Grant field. Yes, sir.

Tech's contribution to Navy personnel through the years has been considerable. A well-known fact.

Well, Navy Coach Rip Miller, after leaving here, visited the parents of Bobby Tom Jenkins at Talladega, Ala. (Jenkins formerly at Alabama, plays in the Navy backfield.)

Miller also visited in Birmingham.

And, while there, Miller said that the Navy game is being played in Atlanta as a tribute to Coach Bill Alexander.

Observers prophesy that Tech will come out of the war as one of the most powerful football teams in the country, having had a great financial year in 1943 and with seven home games, including Notre Dame and Navy, scheduled for next fall.

The Pay-Off As I see it, those expeditions of barnstorming American baseball players—to Cuba, Panama, Puerto Rico and other points—are now paying dividends for organized baseball in the states.

Baseball owners used to frown on their players taking these trips in off season. But I rather imagine they're secretly applauding now. The American players taught their Latin-American neighbors a lot about baseball they didn't already know. And the visits helped to boost interest in the game.

For a long time, when players in the states were plentiful, few teams thought of reaching into Cuba, Venezuela, Puerto Rico or Panama for talent. It wasn't needed.

Clark Griffith was among the first to realize the possibilities.

The New York Giants must have been next. For there have been several Cubans at Jersey City and New York in the past few years.

Oddly, though their coach is Mike Gonzales, the St. Louis Cardinals haven't felt any need for Cuban players. And Gonzales heads a Cuban team in the winter time.

What Clark Griffith, of the Senators, thinks is that the good-neighbor baseball supply is here to stay.

I don't recall any previous Cuban catchers in the majors—Al Lopez is a full-blossomed Spaniard—and it may be the Senators have the first one of real promise. His name is Fermin Guerra, from Havana, and he is giving Rick Ferrell, a veteran of 14 years, solid competition for the first-string job.

The New York Giants also have brought up a Cuban catcher from their Jersey City farm. His name is Andres Fleitas.

The chief objection to Cuban players in the past was that they were too small. But now they seem to be growing much larger in stature, such as six-foot-three, 190-pound Roberto Ortiz, who played with Chattanooga.

"One day," says Clark Griffith, "I expect to have schools in Havana to train youngsters."

If things keep on at the present rate, however, the Cubans may be holding schools to train American youth in a game they've vaguely heard of called baseball.

Tiger on Top Spot Tiger Joe Marsh, widely traveled pro wrestler who teaches judo to the young men of the Naval Training Station at Gainesville, and Al Massey will be a team against that villainous pair—Boom Boom and the Red Devil—in tonight's feature of Paul Jones' mat program at the city auditorium. That's all the wrestling fans need to know. But there is this much more to say. Marsh has been working up to a main event and he plans to make the most of it. He is, at all times, a terrific performer, is Tiger Joe, the sailor.

Frank Veverka Agrees To Memphis Contract

MEMPHIS, April 6.—(AP)—Frank Veverka, the handy man who was the Memphis Chicks' best pitcher last year despite his part-time status, signed his 1944 contract today and immediately joined the squad in their best preseason workout.

Veverka, who also plays first and outfield, again will play only in home games because he's employed in a Memphis war plant.

NEED SHORTSTOP

CHATTANOOGA, April 6.—(AP) The Chattanooga Lookouts' big problem for today dealt with the big gap at shortstop which has no one to play it at the moment.

Manager Scrappy Moore is working Perry Roberts at first; Hector Arago, snappy Cuban player, at second, and Gilbert Coan, hard-hitting North Carolinian, at third. The catching is pretty well taken care of by Red Barbary, an experienced backstopper, and Hustling Joe Lopez, up from Cuba.

COOK IS ANSWER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6.—(AP)—Arthur Cook, 19-year-old semi-pro left-hander from Indianapolis, was tagged as a possible answer to the Birmingham Barons' pitching problem on the basis of his showing today in an intrasquad contest at Rickwood Field.

Cook, pitching for the "Bombers" squadron, held the opposing "Mustangs" hitless during his three innings on the mounds. The "Bombers," captained by Catcher Dick Wentworth, who snared hitting honors for the afternoon with a double and single in three times up, won handily from Catcher Gabby Tiffin's "Mustangs," 6 to 2.

Young Outfield Holds Answer For Coleman

By JACK HAND.

WALLINGFORD, Conn., April 6.—(AP)—If Evansville Bob Coleman can find the right stuff to spike the Boston Braves' anemic punch he figures to improve the club's 1943 position in his first year as a big league manager.

Adding that wallop depends on the sophomore outfielders—Butch Nieman and Charley Workman—and a flock of new infield candidates.

Coleman knows that he can expect passable pitching from his Big Four of Al Javery, Jim Tobin, Nate Andrews and Charles (Red) Barrett who accounted for 57 wins on last year's sixth place outfit.

GOOD REINFORCEMENTS

Reinforcements are promising but few in number. Carl Lindquist and Ben Cardoni from the Braves' Hartford farm may be ready to take their turns. Lindquist, who was discovered by an Elmira, N. Y., taxicab driver, won 15 and compiled a 2.61 earned run average in the Eastern League. Cardoni won 10.

Hal Shacker, picked up in Brooklyn last summer when he asked for a trial and later sent to Hartford, is a right-handed prospect and Bill Marshall, of Lowell, Mass., High school, is the only left-hander on the squad. Johnny Dagenhard, of Hartford, and Ira Hutchinson, of Rochester, are staying on their defense jobs.

Tommy Holmes gives class to the outfield, but the Brooklyn lad has been accepted by the Navy and is awaiting call. Coleman has faith in his two sophomore flychasers and has installed Nieman in center and Workman in right. He is trying to get Nieman to get out in front of the ball a little more on the theory that he can be one of the league's best powermen if he can pull the ball over toward the foul line away from right center. Bespectacled Chet Clemens, out of baseball last year but a Braves' farm product, is another possibility.

CONNIE RYAN AT THIRD

At the moment Kerby Farrell is the first sacker, but Buck Etchison, a .294 hitter at Hartford, may get the call if he can live up to his average. Ben Geraghty, a Brooklyn flash fresh from Villanova in 1936, is the second baseman and Billy Wietelman is a fixture at short despite his weak hitting. Connie Ryan, a disappointment as a hitter last season, is getting another trial at third. Steve Shemo who played with Springfield, Mass., in the Eastern; Damon Phillips, who fielded brilliantly but failed to hit at Syracuse, and Mike Sandlock, an all-around handy man are the other infield candidates.

Phil Masi and Clyde Kluttz will divide the catching much the same as last year. Big Stew Hofferth, standout receiver with Indianapolis in the American Association last year and by Boston is not expected to report pending a service call.

Team Match Heads Mat Card

Team wrestling will occupy the feature spot on Promoter Paul Jones' big all-star wrestling program scheduled to get under way at 8:30 p. m. tonight at the City Auditorium.

Boom Boom Daffy Don Lee and his mysterious partner, the masked Red Devil, conquerors of Laverne Baxter and Al Massey in a slam-bang match last Friday, will trying to hang up another victory tonight at the expense of Tiger Joe Marsh and Al Massey. This latter pair are favorites with Atlanta fans and will be shooting the works to halt the Boomer and Devil.

A near capacity crowd witnessed last week's tussle and was rewarded with a rough but highly entertaining match.

The semi-windup will feature Irish Jack Kelly, a newcomer from Little Rock, Ark., against Wild Bill Collins. Kelly, a former professional football payer, is reported to be one of the best of the younger wresters. If he makes a great showing tonight, it is possible that Promoter Jones will bring him back for a main go bout in a few weeks.

Tiny Oxford and Jack "Tiger" Kirkland, of the Georgia Power Athletic Club, will open the card in a 30-minute one-fall limit skirmish.

Pirates' DiMaggio Comes to Terms

PITTSBURGH, April 6.—(AP)—Vince DiMaggio, Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder and the club's only holdout, signed a 1944 contract at Muncie, Ind., where the team is in spring training, President William E. Benswanger said today.

Benswager, at Muncie, told club officials here by telephone the San Francisco flyhawk "signed at the club's terms."

Reidsville Club Seeks Ball Games

Games are wanted by the Pirates of the Georgia state prison at Reidsville.

E. A. Smith, athletic director, writes that home games are desired with any school and semi-pro teams in the state. "We will appreciate hearing from any team arranging for a game and promise them a hot game and a royal welcome," Smith said. SIX FIGHTING CLAYS—Five sons and a first cousin of Cliff C. Clay, a member of the staff of the Georgia Public Service Commission, are now in the services of Uncle Sam after varied careers in the sports world. The six members of the athletically inclined family are shown above. On the top row, from left to right, are First Lieutenant Jack S. Clay, the first cousin and a Ferry Command pilot; William Clay, a Marine; "Jungle Jim" Clay, a captain in the Field Artillery and star lineman on Georgia Tech's Orange Bowl champs of 1940. Bottom row, left to right, Lieutenant (j. g.) Henry Clay, of the U. S. Navy; John W. Clay, awaiting a call to duty with the Army, and Gordon Clay, aviation cadet in training at Courtland, Ala. Versatile service, this!

Six Athletic Clay Boys All Serving Uncle Sam

For years they played football or baseball, or were on the wrestling and track teams at Atlanta high schools and southern colleges. Now all six of them are playing on the same team—in different positions.

They are the five sons and a first cousin of Cliff C. Clay, on the staff of the Georgia Public Service Commission, and all of them are decked out in Uncle Sam's uniforms.

Georgia Tech fans will remember James P.—"Jungle Jim"—Clay as the hard-hitting lineman, who left the Missouri team breathless when Tech won the Orange Bowl classic of 1940. Now, "Jungle Jim" is a captain in the Field Artillery, present whereabouts unknown.

Henry, the former southern Golden Gloves Boxing king, is getting his punches to the enemy via the United States Navy. A lieutenant (j. g.) Henry finished his training in the Navy immediately after the Pearl Harbor attack. Since then, he's been busy with trips to Murmansk, the attack at Casablanca, and more recently—in plenty of hot water, over there. He played football at Russell High, and later served as assistant gym instructor while a student at Vanderbilt University.

The other boxer in the family, Gordon, is an aviation cadet in basic training at Courtland, Ala., and a good one, too—since he was selected the outstanding air cadet and ranked student captain and group commander at primary school. While at G. M. A. he was heavyweight boxing champ, and played end at Boys' High during his senior year. He left Tech, where he played in the annual Thanksgiving frosh game in 1942, to join the Air Corps with several teammates.

To make the family record complete, William joined the Marines and went through the tough training at Parris Island, S. C., and New River, N. C., to prepare for the job he's doing now somewhere in the Pacific. William, who is 19, attended Boys' High and Tech High, and was a member of the National Guard, like his older brothers.

The oldest son, John, has been accepted by the Army and is awaiting call. At present he and his family are living in Nashville, Tenn., where he is assistant cashier and an officer in the Third National bank. While at Russell High, he was named on the all-NGIC football team, and was graduated from Vanderbilt in 1937, where he was president of the senior class.

Their cousin, First Lieutenant Jack Starnes Clay, is a ferry command pilot, flying bombers and pursuit ships wherever they're needed. He attended Piedmont College, G. M. C. and the University of Nevada, and was a three-letter man at all three schools. After three years as a professional boxer and wrestler, he became senior member of the Starnes and Annivan Adagio dancing team, playing in Munich when war broke out.

That just about completes the picture—except, oh yes, there is another brother who will be 17 next month, and if the last whistle of the big games hasn't blown before the coach calls him—he would like to get in for the last quarter, anyway.

Three Battles On NGIC Slate

Three games are on tap today as the 1944 N. G. I. C. baseball season hits the second round.

Marist will play its first game of the season today against the Commercial nine. The Typists lost a hard-fought game to Marietta Tuesday, 9-7.

Fulton, which recently lost to the West Fulton Owls, 10-9, after holding a seven-run advantage, will journey out to Decatur for a clash with the Bulldogs. Should Decatur win, it will stand a good chance of snagging the crown.

West Fulton will meet Druid Hills on the Red Devils' field. Druid Hills lost, 19-2, to Decatur Tuesday.

Walker Takes Over Third for Dodgers

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., April 6.—(AP)—Dixie Walker, Brooklyn outfielder of recent years who broke into organized ball as an infielder, will play third base for the Dodgers against the Boston Red Sox at Ebbets Field Saturday, Manager Leo Durocher said today.

Durocher will start Saturday's fray at second with towering Howie Schultz at first and Rookie Gene Maugh at short. Hal Gregg, Curt Davis and Bob Chipman are slated for mound duty.

Tomorrow's game with the Red Sox, also booked for Ebbets Field, has been cancelled. The Dodgers will stay here instead for another drill in the U. S. Military Academy fieldhouse.

Hapeville High Teams To Play Today for Title

The D-3 class of Hapeville High school defeated the combined forces of the D-1 and D-2 classes, 18-14, yesterday morning on the school court in the semi-finals of the boys' basketball tournament. The team, dubbed as the Fast Workers, will play the C-1 class for the school championship this morning at 9 a. m.

The Fast Workers took an early lead and never gave it up. They led, 9-6, at the intermission.

Palker Rickett was the high-pointer for D-3 with nine tallies. Jesse Smith was next with seven. William Oliver scored eight points for the losers.

BRAGAN TAKEN.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6.—(AP)—Bobby Bragan, catcher and infielder, said here today he had been accepted by the Navy but would report Saturday to the Brooklyn Dodgers and would play with that club pending his induction. Bragan passed his physical at Fort McClellan, he said, and plans to stay with the Dodgers until ordered to report for duty, probably in May.

BOXER AT WHEELER.

Benny Johnson, Decatur lightweight who professionally won 135 fights and lost only three, is now in training with the infantry at Camp Wheeler.

Knuckle-Baller Is Available For Home Tilts

By JACK TROY,
Constitution Sports Editor.

Here's more good news from Cracker headquarters. Lewis Carpenter, of Woodstock, Ga., is going to pitch for the Atlanta team again.

Carpenter has received permission from the Washington Senators (Clark Griffith) to make a deal with the Crackers. The right-hander from Woodstock, a fine knuckle ball pitcher, works at Bell Bomber plant and will be available for home games of the Atlanta team.

WORKING OUT DAILY

Carpenter has been working out with Manager Ki Ki Cuyler's squad since opening day—and he has been hopeful of receiving Washington's consent to play home games with Atlanta. Now he has the consent of the Old Fox.

Washington optioned Carpenter's contract to Atlanta and the pitcher and Cracker officials are expected to get together on terms in the near future.

Two years ago, pitching for Memphis, Carpenter won the first 10 games of the season. Then the Chicks of Doc Prothro hit the skids—and so did Carpenter. He lost 10 straight.

But he is quite a pitcher. His knuckle ball is as effective as Dutch Leonard's. In fact, Carpenter very likely would be pitching regularly for Washington if it weren't for the war.

The availability of Carpenter for home games is naturally very cheering to Manager Cuyler and to President Earl Mann.

Just the day before, they learned that Marshall Mauldin would be around to play center field in the early home games—before entering the service.

All the good news, following some bad news, has changed the outlook at Ponce de Leon considerably.

COUNTED ON HEAVILY

The Crackers can count on Carpenter winning quite a few games. He always has.

A change to warmer weather gave Skipper Cuyler a chance to put the Cracker squad through a long, varied drill yesterday. The first spring game will be held today. The squad will be divided for a six-inning contest.

Sunday the Crackers and Fort McPherson's post nine will play the opening exhibition game of the season at Ponce de Leon.

MEHRE ACCEPTS.

MONTICELLO, Ark., April 6.—(AP)—Lieutenant Homer Cole, coach of the Arkansas A. & M. football team, announced today that Coach Harry Mehre, of the University of Mississippi, had assured him Ole Miss would play the Boll Weevils this fall if Mississippi resumed football.

6 Italian Parties Agree War Cabinet Necessary

SORRENTO, Italy, April 6.—(AP)—Leaders of the six opposition parties virtually agreed today to participate in a coalition "war government" of liberated Italy if and when King Vittorio Emanuele retires by designating Crown Prince Umberto as his lieutenant.

After Benedetto Croce, liberal leader, informed it of negotiations to bring about this step, the executive junta of the parties issued a statement reaffirming "the necessity and urgency of forming a war cabinet."

The junta expressed confidence that the initiation of negotiations would "bring a complete and quick solution to the present Italian crisis without waiting for the liberation of Rome."

Members said this meant the junta hoped the king would transfer his powers to his son without delay instead of waiting until Allied armies reach Rome, as he had intended doing.

REMOVES OBSTACLE

The prospect of the king's retirement was presented by Croce to Count Carlo Sforza, anti-Fascist leader, who said it "removes an obstacle in our path." The question of collaborating with Marshal Pietro Badoglio as premier was described even by those hostile to him as "of secondary importance."

The junta's decision was taken in answer to a Communist proposal for the formation of a coalition war cabinet even if the king remained. The negotiations which resulted in the king's proposal to retire had been disclosed, Croce said, only because of the Communist initiative. Thus the six parties apparently have found a formula under which they could collaborate in the reorganization of the government without seeming to be in the tow of the Communists.

DE NICOLA CREDITED

Croce and Sforza in a joint statement credited Senator Enrico de Nicola, last pre-Fascist president of the chamber of deputies, with the idea of substituting "a lieutenancy," which has numerous precedents in Italian history, for the king's abdication which the six parties previously had demanded after the Bari convention last January.

"We felt it our duty not to stand firm on the question of pure form," the two leaders said.

De Nicola then conferred with the king, finally reporting "the king had resolved to name the Prince of Piedmont (Umberto) as his lieutenant general pending a decision of the Italian people (on the monarchy).

KING'S OKAY

The king intended to designate his lieutenant the day of Rome's liberation, De Nicola reported, but declared himself ready to give notice of it immediately.

The various party leaders said an effort would be made to persuade the king to issue a proclamation of the lieutenancy as soon as possible.

There were unconfirmed reports the Communists already were seeking the ministry of national defense in the reorganized government as well as the ministry of the interior, which controls the police system and appoints many key officials.

Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist leader who proposed a war cabinet with "no prejudice against Badoglio" even if the king remained, was present at the two-hour conference held in the villa where Croce lives.

Floods Boost Road Budget

A request by State Highway Director Ryburn Clay for $1,250,000 to repair flood damage in addition to his regular budget was approved by the state budget commission yesterday, Auditor B. E. Thrasher has announced.

Clay's request for additional funds to repair damage and do heavy maintenance work on Georgia highways brought his total request for the new quarter to $2,272,861.

In announcing the approval of the highway department budget, Thrasher commended the heads of other departments whose budget requests have been submitted, adding that they are co-operating with his request to cut expenses to a minimum.

Atlanta Seabee Lauded For Heroism in Pacific

An Atlantan was among a group of 31 Seabees commended by the Navy yesterday for heroism following an explosion of an ammunition dump at a South Pacific base last November.

He is Raymond Phillips, of East Point, who is credited with fighting fires caused by the explosion, salvaging valuable equipment, and rescuing injured servicemen despite exploding shells, shrapnel and flaming gasoline.

INDORSE RESURFACING

Proposed resurfacing of Georgia avenue from McDaniel street to Grant Park has the unanimous indorsement of the Grant Park Civic Association. The organization, headed by J. A. Harper, has passed resolutions urging Fulton county and Atlanta to include the stretch in a joint improvement program which the two governments are undertaking.

DIVIDENDS CORRECTED

A Courts & Company tabulation of first-quarter dividends to be paid by local corporations, printed by The Constitution last Sunday, gave $1,687,500 as total amount to be paid on the 4 1-2 per cent preferred stock of Thomaston Cotton Mills. The figure should have read $16,875.

Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Specialties, a few rails and scattered industrials maintained recovery leadership in today's stock market without touching off demand for many leaders.

Selectivity persisted from the start, with earnings and individual props inspiring bidding. Political optimism, in the wake of the Wisconsin primary results, aided bullish sentiment to some extent.

The bond market strengthened its position all along the line today under strong leadership of the rails.

In the curb Lackawanna (N. J.) was up 2½ and Venezuelan Petroleum 1⅛. Lesser improvement was retained by Electric Bond & Share, Puget Sound Power, International Petroleum and Glen Alden Coal.

Turnover here was 190,985 shares versus 189,775 yesterday.

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures marked time today with much of the trade representing evening up operations prior to the long holiday weekend. Mill price fixing strengthened the May position as only scale-up offerings appeared through spot firms. Other months were barely steady under the influence of scattered liquidation.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Reduced receipts of hogs again today bolstered trading and the market opened 10 cents higher, but the advance was lost in later sales. Choice fed steers and yearlings were fairly active. Lambs were active, steady to 15 cents higher.

A moderate supply of 12,000 hogs met with interest on the open market, with packers bidding and paying higher prices in early sales. The top of $14.15 was paid sparingly for medium weights while the bulk of the 190 to 330 pounders sold for $13.85 to $14.05. Packers were forced to turn to the salable supply to fill out their slaughter requirements and sales were on a competitive basis. Although prices have gone up since the beginning of this week, the losses suffered late last week were not fully restored and today's top was sharply under last week's high prices.

Slaughterers were anxious to buy all of the good and choice yearlings in the cattle crop, but steers of lower grade were slow, especially those selling below $13.50. The bulk of the steer run sold for $14 to $15.75 with the top price $16.75.

Fed woolen western lambs topped at $16.65, but the most popular price of the day was $16.50.

THOMASVILLE

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 6.—(WFA) Hog receipts totaled 2,800 head at eight major packing plants in south Georgia, north Florida and southeastern Alabama. Prices remained steady.

New Asthma Remedy Found

CLEVELAND, April 6.—(AP)—New indications for asthma and Malarial creeping sickness were reported to the American Chemical Society today.

The asthma remedy is one of 20 new chemicals synthesized in search of a compound to relieve the stranling sensation of asthma without at the same time raising blood pressure.

The two standard asthma remedies, ephedrine and epinephrine, cause a rise in blood pressure. The report was made by Nathan Levin, Lloyd F. Graham and N. G. Kolonel of the Upjohn Company, Kalamazoo, Mich.

The new drug—which has not been tried on human beings, but on dogs has no blood pressure raising effects and on rabbits it appears to be an efficient dilator for relief of strangling.

The sleeping sickness remedy is of the type to which American soldiers are likely to be exposed. It is a new arsenic compound, less poisonous than the arsenic usually employed to treat sleeping sickness and has been tried in East Africa with encouraging results.

This new compound is also being tried as a possible remedy for the late stages of chronic syphilis. The report was made by Dr. Ernest A. H. Friedheim, of the Panel Chemical Corporation, New York City.

Discovery of a method to make activated carbon, the poison gas absorbent, out of soft coal was reported by Drs. S. Bova and H. H. Hodge of Purdue University. The carbon is made by treating the coal with chlorine.

The best grade carbon has been produced from coconut shells. The soft coal carbon was reported equal or superior to the best coconut product. The discovery is of military importance if the Axis starts gas warfare. It has also large industrial uses.

Drs. R. G. Larsen, F. A. Armstrong and L. D. Grenet, of the Shell Development Company, Emeryville, Cal., reported invention of a lead-consumption which can be thrust into the oil in your car to find out whether the lubricant is still good.

Bishop Moore To Speak At Good Friday Service

A Good Friday Easter service for the Druid Hills community is announced for tonight at the Druid Hills Baptist church, with Bishop Arthur J. Moore as the speaker. The services will begin at 7:45 p. m.

"The Transforming Cross" will be the theme of Bishop Moore's sermon. There will be special Easter music by the church's choir, under the direction of Mrs. John Felder.

The public is cordially invited to share with the several congregations of the community in this special pre-Easter service, according to announcement by Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor.

3 Women Spies Hoping For Sentence Revision

DETROIT, April 6.—(AP)—United States Marshal John Bare, who returned today after taking three convicted women members of a German spy ring to the National Reformatory for Women at Alderson, W. Va., said they had expressed hope that when the war is over they can obtain revision of their sentences.

Bare said Grace Buchanan-Dineen, the self-styled "countess" who was a government witness at the spy trial here and who was sentenced to 12 years, would be placed in a separate cottage at the prison after the quarantine period from the one occupied by Miss Theresa Behrens, serving a 15-year term, and Mrs. Emma Leonhardt, sentenced to five years.

Upon their recent sentencing Miss Behrens had expressed enmity toward Miss Buchanan-Dineen.

First of 20,000 Italians Reach Refuge in Sicily

NAPLES, April 6.—(AP)—Sicily's ancient port of Syracuse is receiving the first of 20,000 refugees from the Italian war who are expected to reach the island this month, the Allied Control Commission announced today. Since the invasion of Italy more than 62,500 homeless civilians have been moved from battle areas by Allied authorities and 50,000 more have fled voluntarily to the southern provinces.
